TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A double-decker bus and a double-decker cattle truck collided head-on Sunday, killing nine persons and injuring 32 in one of Arizona's bloodiest crashes.

Highway Patrolman Jimmy Williams said the truck had crossed the center line.

The force of the impact dismembered bodies and hurled cattle, some maimed and thrashing, inside the front of the bus.

Everyone on the bus was killed or injured. The bus driver was killed, as were two drivers in the cattle truck.

Thirty cattle, mostly calves, were killed on impact. Highway patrolmen destroyed a dozen more injured animals with revolvers. Many fled, bawling, into the desert.

The Los Angeles-New Orleans bus was a special, added for holiday travelers. Nearly everyone aboard was bound somewhere for Christmas.

"I saw it coming," said Army Pfc. Grady L. Fowler Jr., 24, Corpus Christi, Tex. "In a split second I saw something coming toward the bus and I knew it couldn't miss."

"I tried to yell. No words would come. I threw myself against the seat in front just as we hit."

Fowler, like most others seated in the upper level, escaped serious injury. The dead and critically hurt were near the front of the lower level.

China Reds Free Two U.S. Sailors

HONG KONG (AP)—Two American sailors who said they overstayed their shore leave in Hong Kong and wandered into Communist China last week were released by the Chinese Communists Sunday, no worse for their adventure.

The sailors, identified as Seamen Jerry L. Munfrada, 29, of Las Vegas, Nev., and Roy D. Bazzell, 29, of Houston, Tex., spent four nights in Communist hands. They said they were questioned repeatedly by the Communists but not ill treated.

They said they had no desire to enter Red China and did not know they had crossed the border until they were picked up by Communist militia.

After several hours interrogation by U.S. Navy and consulate officials here they looked more frightened of what lay ahead of them than what was behind. Navy officials here said they would be placed in custody pending a decision on the disposal of their case.

Ex-Members Criticize FCC

NEW YORK (AP)—Two former members of the Federal Communications Commission have sharply criticized the FCC for what they consider its failure to ensure that commercial broadcasters operate in the public interest.

The views were expressed by Clifford J. Durr and Lawrence Fly during discussions which form the basis for a report released Sunday by the Fund for the Republic.

Roseal Hyde, a present FCC member, differed with Durr and Fly. He said the public expects more from the commission than it is authorized to do.

Durr, now a Montgomery, Ala., attorney, said the FCC does not effectively check stations to make sure they keep the promises they made when applying for licenses.

Fly, a New York lawyer, said the FCC sees its role merely as "an electronic traffic cop" that allocates broadcasting licenses. He saw a growing need for more control of major networks.

Fly said the networks dominate the broadcasting field.

Fla. Couple, Two Children Found Slain

Ranch Hand, Wife, Son Shot To Death, Daughter Drowned

OSPREY, Fla. (AP) — An unknown killer armed with a .22-caliber rifle or pistol murdered a ranch hand, his wife and their two small children at a rural home Saturday night.

"It was the worst scene I've ever walked into," said Sheriff Ross E. Boyer. "There is absolutely no doubt about this being murder."

A friend found the bodies of Clifford Walker and his wife, Christine, both 24, and their son, Jimmy, 3, lying inside the modest frame home. Each had been shot in the head. The couple's 2-year-old daughter, Debbie, was found floating face down in a bathtub full filled with water.

"Sickening" Sight

Deputy Lonnie C. Selph said the killer apparently drowned the girl after firing all of his bullets into the bodies of the other three victims.

"I've seen a lot of murders," said Selph, "but nothing as sickening as this. There was blood all over the living room and dining room. That little boy looked like he had just curled up beside his father and gone to sleep."

Boyer said, "the slayings definitely were the work of an expert marksman. The killer didn't miss."

"We have no suspects and no leads," the sheriff said. "Right now we are waiting to check some fingerprints taken from the home."

Bloodhounds Aid In Hunt

Boyer said three persons had been questioned but were not considered suspects.

The sheriff's department in Arcadia sent bloodhounds to aid in the hunt. The dogs were unable to pick up a scent in the pine scrublands surrounding the home.

The bodies were discovered before dawn by a neighbor, Donald McLeod 27, who ran two miles to a telephone and notified the sheriff.

Boyer reported McLeod had gone to the Walker home to join Walker on a wild dog hunt.

Huge Sparklers To Welcome Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—City officials plan to welcome President Eisenhower Tuesday night with sparklers so big they're illegal in Washington.

The 15,000 sparklers had to be bought in Havre de Grace, Md., because they're 36 inches long. The penalty for selling them in Washington can be 90 days in jail and a $250 fine.

Officials plan to pass out the sparklers to crowds who will light the President's way to the White House when he returns from his world tour. In the view of District Commissioner Robert E. McLaughlin, this shouldn't break the city ordinance.

"We aren't going to sell them," he explained, "only use them."

But First Deputy Fire Marshal Hugh A. Groves points out that it is illegal to buy banned fireworks outside the city and set them off inside the city, unless a permit is obtained. No such permit has been issued for the Eisenhower celebration.

"It isn't necessary to issue a permit to ourselves," McLaughlin said.

With Mr. Williams' passing, the hosts of Blue and Gray who were the chief actors in that great and tragic drama a century ago also have all passed from the world stage. No longer are they the Blue and Gray. All rest together as Americans in honored glory. An era has ended."

Williams' family, including more than 200 descendants, figured his age at 117.

The tired old soldier died in the arms of a son-in-law, Ed Bielomowicz.

"He just quit breathing," Bielomowicz said. "He just went to sleep."

The bitter dispute which once divided our nation have long since healed, and a united America in a divided world now holds up a larger canvas the cherished traditions of liberty and justice for all.

The White House announced that Eisenhower will be represented at Williams' funeral by the commanding general of the 4th U.S. Army, Lt. Gen. Edward T. Williams.

The White House also issued this statement by the President: "With millions of Americans throughout our land, I pause in respectful silence to honor the passing of the last surviving veteran of the War Between the States, Walter W. Williams."

Steel Firms To Discuss Shift In Bargaining

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steel management agreed Sunday night to discuss a union demand that negotiations in the prolonged steel dispute be shifted from an industry-wide to a company-by-company basis.

The 11 major steel companies, in a letter to President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers, said, however, that they had "serious misgivings" that such a shift in bargaining would prove productive.

Nevertheless, the companies said, they were willing to discuss the matter with union representatives here Monday, Federal Mediation Director Joseph F. Finnegan has summoned both sides back to Washington for a resumption of his efforts to bring about a steel settlement. The mediation session is scheduled for 2 p.m. e.s.t.

The companies also told McDonald that his latest contract demands, which are higher than those already rejected by management, did not improve prospects for steel industry peace.

McDonald presented a 10-point revised proposal in a letter to the companies last Thursday. The new plan generally followed terms negotiated with the Kaiser Steel Corp. in October, but included some demands not obtained from Kaiser.

The companies said McDonald's higher terms, coming just prior to President Eisenhower's return from his good will tour and "in defiance of his earnest urging for a (steel) settlement which is fair to all... has further endangered free collective bargaining."

And free collective bargaining, the companies said, "is on trial in our industry."

Adenauer Assured:

Allies Will Not Yield West Berlin Rights

PARIS (AP) —Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's allies have assured him they are determined to maintain their war-won occupation rights in isolated West Berlin, diplomatic informants reported Monday.

These assurances, given during the weekend Western summit meetings, set the 82-year-old West German leader's mind at ease, they said.

Adenauer had feared President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were softening their negotiation position regarding free West Berlin, locked 110 miles inside Communist territory.

But accounts spread by the delegations gave conflicting impressions of what precisely had been pledged.

The West Germans claimed the United States, Britain and France had cancelled the changes in the running of the city they had offered the Soviet Union at the Big Four parley in Geneva last summer. In other words the Germans were suggesting that the Allies now are no longer willing to consider any new arrangements in Berlin.

Cuban Minister Escapes Bullets

HAVANA (AP) — Gunmen Sunday wounded three men leaving an automobile assigned to the Castro government's minister of labor. Police said the shooting was an apparent attempt on the life of the official, Augusto Martinez Sanchez.

Martinez Sanchez was not with the trip at the time of the shooting.

Police gave this account: Emilio Criado, 21, and Antonio Hernandez, 23, employees of the Ministry of Labor, and Lt. Edgar Escalona, an aide to the labor minister, were attacked by gunmen firing from a passing car. The two ministry employees were wounded seriously and Escalona was shot in the hand.

Escalona, who wears a beard like the labor minister, told police he thought the gunmen confused him with Martinez Sanchez in the early morning darkness.

The car carrying the gunmen sped away in the darkness.

There have been numerous reports of shooting incidents from passing cars in recent months with the targets police stations or military posts.

At Least Five Die In Ohio Hotel Fire

LIMA, Ohio (UPI) —At least five elderly guests of a hotel died Sunday night in a blaze that swept the two-story, part frame and part brick building.

The blaze broke out on the top floor of the Hollarn Hotel on South Main Street, about seven blocks from this city's main business district.

The hotel catered to retired persons, mostly retired railroaders.

De Gaulle's NATO Stand Unchanged

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently has failed to persuade French President Charles de Gaulle to abandon his strong opposition to a united military air command for Atlantic Pact forces.

In face-to-face talks, however, De Gaulle has hinted he may change his stand if and when the Algerian war ends.

Diplomatic authorities who reported this Sunday night said the Eisenhower-De Gaulle conference has smoothed over the rough edges of an argument which kept the Atlantic Pact Council in turmoil in meetings last week.

The French leader is reported standing firm on his basic attitude, which is that the national forces allied to each other are more efficient in mobilizing Western defensive strength.

Eisenhower is reported insisting just as firmly that a single integrated command is vital to sound planning for Western air, naval and ground defenses.

18 States Hold Key To GOP's Senate Chances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans hope to start next year the climb back up the long, rocky road toward control of the Senate.

The measure of their success, or failure, appears likely to be decided in 18 key states.

GOP National Chairman Thurston B. Morton has predicted that as a result of an upsurge in the last few months his party will be able to hang on to seats it previously had almost given up for lost.

Beyond that he is cautiously optimistic of knocking off some Democrats. He concedes the GOP has no chance of overturning in 1960 the 65-35 advantage the Democrats now hold.

But in an effort to get started toward attaining such a goal in 1962 or 1964, Republican strategists are looking at nine states where they believe some strenuous organization work and judicious use of campaign funds might give them a chance to unseat incumbent Democrats.

These include Alaska, Delaware, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Oregon, Rhode Island and Wyoming.

Republican hopes in some of these states are built largely on the chance that some of the sitting Democrats will retire because of age. Included in this category are Sens. Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, who is 92, James E. Murray of Montana, 83, and Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, 73.

Morton says frankly he believes it would be easier for Republicans to beat Democrats less well known in such states than to take on the incumbents.

A few states offer special inducements for the Republicans. One of these is Oregon, which now has a GOP governor and where Sen. Richard L. Neuberger is under fire from his Democratic colleague, Sen. Wayne Morse.

GOP strategists think Michigan's financial troubles under Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams may help them elect a senator there. They hope the "peace and prosperity" issue will give them a better showing than they made in Alaska in 1958.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congressional and presidentially, areational Committee for an Effective Congress said Sunday the Democrats don't have much of a chance to capture the presidency in 1960 unless war breaks out or times get bad.

This private committee said the only way the Democrats can offset what it called President Eisenhower's "lovely pastoral" of peace and prosperity is to set up a cabinet-like committee in Congress to "fill the leadership gap" and seize the initiative with "daring new ventures and ideas."

In its annual analysis of the political picture the committee declared: "If the President is as successful in sustaining his image as a peacemaker as he was as a warrior, and a modicum of prosperity continues, the prospects for the Democrats in 1960, both con-

Ike Favors Summit Series; De Gaulle Will Come To U.S.

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three decided Sunday to invite Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to attend an April-in-Paris summit meeting. And if President Eisenhower has his way, the meeting is likely to mark the beginning of a series of conferences in big power capitals.

At the same time, Eisenhower, French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan proposed to the Communist East a resumption of general disarmament talks. In effect, this might serve as a test of Soviet intentions.

A Western summit meeting, coming to an end after two days of talks, also produced the announcement that De Gaulle would visit the United States in advance of the East-West meeting.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen President Eisenhower made it clear he favors several summit sessions with the Russians. This raised the possibility of a quick additional summit meeting timed for early summer when the President is scheduled to visit Moscow to return Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

Envoys Relay Idea To Khrush

"The President feels it would be very difficult to solve all problems at one summit conference," Hagerty said.

Western spokesmen indicated the idea of a series of summit sessions in big power capitals would be sketched out for Khrushchev orally by the American, French and British ambassadors in Moscow.

The ambassadors also will suggest the week of April 25 for the first summit. But the approach to the Kremlin, described by one informant as "very polite," will leave the Soviet leader some choice in the matter of place and date. Khrushchev is believed likely to accept.

The major work of Eisenhower, De Gaulle and Macmillan and of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany—who technically had no hand in extending the summit invitation—was just about finished Sunday night so far as this Western summit meeting was concerned. All that remained were formalities in advance of Eisenhower's departure Monday for Spain, next stop in his three-continent good-will tour.

Foreign Ministers Confer

But the foreign ministers of five Western nations — the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy—meet in Paris Monday afternoon to make proposals for the resumption of 10-nation disarmament talks. The proposals will go to the Soviet Union, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria. Geneva is a likely site for such a meeting. This 10-nation group has been under United Nations instructions to negotiate a path toward general disarmament. But such negotiations have been pushed aside over the last two years.

With regard to the summit invitation, the West's ambassadors in Moscow will tell Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko just what problems the Western leaders think should be discussed. These are disarmament, the problems of West Berlin and divided Germany, and East-West tensions in general. That was as specific as Hagerty would be.

But speaking of the Western summit meeting here, Hagerty said: "The President thinks the accomplishments were fine. There's been an understanding between the governments participating, and the proposals we are making to Khrushchev were supported unanimously."

Hagerty also expressed belief the private talks Eisenhower had with De Gaulle would result in much good. The two former comrades-in-arms had differed sharp-

9 Die In Bus, Truck Crash 32 Injured In Ariz. Collision

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A double-decker bus and a double-decker truck collided head-on Sunday, killing nine persons and injuring 32 in one of Arizona's bloodiest crashes.

Highway Patrolman Jimmy Williams said the truck had crossed the center line.

The force of the impact dismembered bodies and hurled cattle, some maimed and thrashing, inside the front of the bus.

Everyone on the bus was killed or injured. The bus driver was killed, as were two drivers in the cattle truck.

Thirty cattle, mostly calves, were killed on impact. Highway patrolmen destroyed a dozen more injured animals with revolvers. Many fled, bawling, into the desert.

Fowler, like most others seated in the upper level, escaped serious injury. The dead and critically hurt were near the front of the lower level.

"This is the bloodiest accident I have ever seen," said Arizona Highway Patrolman Jim Williams. "The impact was so great that some of the cattle were hurled inside the bus. That's where we found them."

One calf was found on top of the wrecked bus.

Williams said the cause of the accident still is being investigated.

The weather was clear and the road dry when the Greyhound bus and truck smashed together at 4:28 a.m. on Highway 80, 12 miles east of here.

James R. Stewart of Del Rio, who was behind the wheel of the big truck, was doing part-time driving to pay for a skin graft operation on his 5-year-old son, James Jr., who had been burned. He was also the father of two daughters.

The second truck driver, Stewart's relief, was Ronald Philip Spence, of Las Vegas, Nev., and Hawthorne, Calif.

Two of the dead were Cuban citizens—Benito Casanova, 55, and wife, Carmen, 53, of Guantanamo. Casanova's papers also listed an address at 403 Moore St., Bristol, Va.

The bus driver had just taken over from another driver in Tucson a few minutes before the accident. He was Barney Boyd, 44, of El Paso, Tex. A relief driver was injured.

Adenauer Assured:

Allies Will Not Yield West Berlin Rights

PARIS (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's allies have assured him they are determined to maintain their war-won occupation rights in isolated West Berlin, diplomatic informants reported Monday.

These assurances, given during the weekend Western summit meetings, set the 82-year-old West German leader's mind at ease, they said.

Adenauer had feared President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were softening their negotiation position regarding free West Berlin, locked 110 miles inside Communist territory.

In other words the Germans were suggesting that the Allies now are no longer willing to consider any new arrangements in Berlin.

An authorized British source denied this.

The informant said Eisenhower, Macmillan and President Charles de Gaulle of France were asked for—and readily gave—the assurances to Adenauer that they firmly stand on their rights to maintain troops in West Berlin. This assurance took the form of reaffirmation of the pledge made a year ago by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The NATO declaration of 1958 promised the West would reject any Berlin solution that jeopardized the American-British-French right to be in West Berlin and the liberty of the 2½ million citizens there.

The British official said the Big Four did not even discuss the negotiating position to be taken when the Western leaders met Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the East-West summit planned for April.

It seemed the British were stressing what has long been their view—that a stopgap deal on Berlin still is negotiable with the Soviet Union. And they clearly were trying to counter the impression left by the West Germans—which portrayed the whole Western stand on Berlin as frozen.

All that remained were formalities in advance of Eisenhower's departure Monday for Spain, next stop in his three-continent good-will tour.

Foreign Ministers Confer

But the foreign ministers of five Western nations—the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy—met in Paris Monday afternoon to make proposals for the resumption of 10-nation disarmament talks. The proposals will go to the Soviet Union, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria. Geneva is a likely site for such a meeting. This 10-nation group has been under United Nations instructions to negotiate a path toward general disarmament. But such negotiations have been pushed aside over the last two years.

With regard to the summit invitation, the West's ambassadors in Moscow will tell Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko just what problems the Western leaders think should be discussed. These are disarmament, the problems of West Berlin and divided Germany, and East-West tensions in general. That was as specific as Hagerty would be.

But speaking of the Western summit meeting here, Hagerty said: "The President thinks the accomplishments were fine. There's been an understanding between the governments participating, and the proposals we are making to Khrushchev were supported unanimously."

Hagerty also expressed belief the private talks Eisenhower had with De Gaulle would result in much good. The two former comrades-in-arms had differed sharply.

World Financial Position Of U.S. Vastly Improved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Commerce Department said Sunday that the world financial position of the United States apparently took a sharp turn for the better last summer.

Furthermore, the department indicated it expects a continued strengthening of the U.S. position, which is measured in terms of this country's balance of international payments.

In the past two years, the United States has been running a big payments deficit as a result of spending, lending and giving away more money than has been received. This situation has been a source of grave concern to some top policymakers, who are fearful that the dollar might be weakened if the deficit continued.

The commerce report said the payments deficit was reduced only slightly in the July-September quarter. On an annual basis, the deficit decreased by 236 million dollars to $4,220,000,000.

However, the department said it believes a much bigger improvement would have been recorded had it been possible to gather more accurate statistics.

"On this basis," the report said, "it may be tentatively concluded that the third quarter was the turning point in our recent balance of payments experience."

To bolster its optimistic findings, the department reported that U.S. receipts from exports and from investments here by foreigners increased by 444 million dollars in the third quarter. In contrast, it said U.S. payments for imports, government programs overseas and private investments abroad increased by only three million dollars.

Rep. Garmatz Seeks 8th Consecutive Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rep. Edward A. Garmatz announced Sunday he will run for Democratic renomination to the House seat from Maryland's Fourth District he has held since 1947.

Garmatz will be seeking his eighth consecutive two-year term in the district which he wholly within Baltimore City. He said he would formally file his certificate of candidacy just before Congress reconvenes early in January.

State Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli (D-Balto 1st) has been campaigning quietly for the same congressional seat.

Bet He Was Surprised

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A hose hooked around the bumper of a car was described by police as the cause of an explosion and fire at a filling station near here Saturday.

Police said Leonard C. Curtis of Laurel, unaware of the hose hooked on his bumper, drove away from a gasoline pump at Hines Service Station, on Route 216 west of here.

The pump was pulled over and the resulting explosion and fire caused about $100 damage. No one was hurt.

Smith Shelves Trumpet To Be School Teacher

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—F. Allen Smith, who had it made in big-time jazz, has put down his trumpet to be a fifth-grade school teacher.

"It's been a conflict for years," Smith said Sunday.

Smith, now 34, made his choice last summer to quit "the rat race in New York" and go back to public school teaching here at Burnett Elementary School.

Just a year earlier Smith had left a teaching job to give a full-time inning in his personal career conflict to jazz—with its far bigger cash income rewards.

"I had a lot of friends in New York, and they gave me contacts," reported Smith, whose trumpet work on the Benny Goodman record, "Happy Sessions Blues," is savored by jazz fans.

"I went on tour with Goodman played with him in that TV 'Swing Into Spring' show, worked as first trumpet in the Roxy pit band, and had a chance to work in night clubs, on movie sound tracks and on recording dates."

"New York is a rat race. Some people like it. My friend Jerome Richardson loves New York. He works day and night with two or three four-hour recording dates besides his regular job and makes $500 or $600 a week."

"But he comes in at 5 a.m. and gets up at 8."

Smith did the same during his time in the New York jazz capital. And he asked himself: "Is it worth it?"

Smith, a handsome Negro, explained: "To me the challenge of education is the bigger challenge even though I have two loves."

Woman Passes Half-Way Mark Of 373-Mile Trek

LONDON (AP)—One of the world's amazing women trudged untiringly Sunday past the half-way mark of a lone, around-the-clock 373-mile trek from Edinburgh to London.

Blistered, soaked by rain, lashed by wind, Dr. Barbara Moore pressed on undaunted.

"I shall be in London by Tuesday to celebrate my 57th birthday," she told a newsman who turned up on her lonely road.

The Soviet-born dietitian, who claims to have the stamina of a man of 24, resumed her marathon march at dawn after resting for two hours at a roadside inn in the Yorkshire town of Boroughbridge.

Three hours later, she stepped swiftly past the half-way mark and plodded ahead on blistered and bandaged feet.

Shah Taking Third Wife For Dynastic As Well As Human Reasons, He Says

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi said Sunday he is taking pretty Farah Diba as his third wife for dynastic as well as human reasons.

The handsome 40-year-old Shah and the 21-year-old Iranian commoner will be wed in a Moslem ceremony in the Shah's marble palace Monday.

Meeting the press in the audience room of his palace, the Shah was asked if he could explain to the world his reasons for marrying Farah, until recently a relatively obscure student of architecture in Paris.

Speaking in low-pitched, barely audible French, the Shah replied that besides human reasons there were others "of a monarchical order."

He was referring to the constitution's requirement that the successor to the throne be a son of the reigning Shah and to the fact that his first marriage produced only a daughter and the second, to Soraya Esfandiary, another Iranian beauty, was childless.

Lack of a son was the reason the Shah gave when he tearfully divorced Soraya 20 months ago.

The Shah did not say so but he obviously is hoping his third voyage into matrimony will result in a male offspring.

Algiers Violence

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—A grenade exploded in a crowded bar here Saturday night, wounding four Moslem Algerians and a French sergeant. Police said a young Algerian threw the grenade and escaped.

Near Bone, an ore train was derailed when a mine exploded beneath the tracks. One member of the train crew was killed and another wounded.

Girl, 19, State's 502nd Traffic Victim Of Year

By The Associated Press

Maryland's highway toll climbed to 502 during the weekend with the death of a 19-year-old girl in a one-car accident in Bethesda. Last year at this time 480 persons had met death on state highways.

The latest victim was Judith Van Grollmeson of (5901 Aberdeen Road) Bethesda, a passenger in a car that ran out of control Saturday night and struck a hydrant, utility pole and building at Old Georgetown Road and Woodmont Avenue.

The driver, 19-year-old Barbara Ann Rydlander, also of Bethesda, suffered lacerations.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Ethel Sheriff of Baltimore died at Provident Hospital of injuries received in the collision of a car and light truck Friday night. Charges were pending against the drivers of both vehicles.

In Washington, 22-year-old Elijah Turner was crushed against a brick wall when a car sped across a sidewalk late Friday night. He died early Saturday.

Leonard President, 20, and Ruby Tinker, 18, each accused the other of being the driver. Police charged both Negroes with reckless driving and homicide and held them in jail.

Young Father Guilty In Shooting Of Girl, 15

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 21-year-old father of two children has been convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old girl.

Sentencing of Donald Francis Dorsey was postponed until Tuesday pending possible motions for an appeal.

A criminal Court jury returned the verdict Saturday after deliberating two hours. Dorsey had been charged with murder in the slaying of Olivia Dora McAdams Oct. 20 at a card party at Dorsey's apartment.

Disorder In Courtroom Brings Preventive Action

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Montgomery County officials plan to hold a conference soon on steps to prevent a recurrence of disorder such as the one Thursday in the county court house.

That incident, said to be the first of its kind in the history of the county Circuit Court, came minutes after a jury returned a guilty verdict in a rape trial.

The defendant, Gordon Leon Contee, 23, of Quince Orchard, went berserk, screamed "kill me now," and made a dash in the direction of the court room window.

His wife began sobbing hysterically, and his half brother, Melvin William Smith, 20, of Gettysburg, leaped forward and began punching a detective holding Contee.

Then the disorder subsided as quickly as it began. Contee and his half brother were placed in the county jail.

But meanwhile, some 30 county policemen and state troopers swarmed into the court house in response to a riot call.

Circuit Judge James H. Pugh and Judge Kathryn J. Lawlor presided at the trial. Judge Pugh said the county's four circuit judges will confer in the near future.

"Too little and too late. Will it be said of you?"

Market Owner Shot To Death And Robbed

CATONSVILLE, Md. (AP)—The owner of a market was shot to death and robbed as he arrived home in his car at this Baltimore suburb early Sunday.

Police said the victim was George A. Langenfelder, 41. He was believed to have had the market receipts with him, but authorities did not know how much money. His wallet also was missing. Money was found on the floor of the front seat of the car.

Police had an alarm out for two or three men traveling in a two-tone car. The description was sketchy.

Tawes Recommends Spending $1,703,500 On Maryland's Correctional Institutions

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The 1960 next July 1, General Assembly will be asked to approve $1,703,500 in capital improvements for Maryland's correctional institutions.

Gov. Tawes recommended the allocation Saturday as part of his $96,500 to equip a diagnostic center at Patuxent Institution, which will go into effect $335,000 to build permanent facilities for 100 prisoners at Hughesville Correctional Camp and $250,000 to acquire land adjacent to the State Penitentiary for state use.

Girl, 19, State's 502nd Traffic Victim Of Year

By The Associated Press
Maryland's highway toll climbed to 502 during the weekend with the death of a 19-year-old girl in a one-car accident in Bethesda. Last year at this time 400 persons had met death on state highways.

The latest victim was Judith Van Grollmeson, of 5901 Aberdeen Road, Bethesda, a passenger in a car that ran out of control Saturday night and struck a hydrant, utility pole and building at Old Georgetown Road and Woodmont Avenue.

The driver, 19-year-old Barbara Ann Rydlander, also of Bethesda, suffered lacerations.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Ethel Sheriff of Baltimore died at Provident Hospital of injuries received in the collision of a car and light truck Friday night. Charges were pending against the drivers of both vehicles.

In Washington, 22-year-old Elijah Turner was crushed against a brick wall when a car sped across a sidewalk late Friday night. He died early Saturday.

Leonard President, 20, and Ruby Tinker, 18, each accused the other of being the driver. Police charged both Negroes with reckless driving and homicide and held them in jail.

Young Father Guilty In Shooting Of Girl, 15

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 21-year-old father of two children has been convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old girl.

Sentencing of Donald Francis Dorsey was postponed until Tuesday pending possible motions for an appeal.

A criminal Court jury returned the verdict Saturday after deliberating two hours. Dorsey had been charged with murder in the slaying of Olivia Dora McAdams Oct. 20 at a card party at Dorsey's apartment.

Disorder In Courtroom Brings Preventive Action

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Montgomery County officials plan to hold a conference soon on steps to prevent a recurrence of disorder such as the one Thursday in the county court house.

That incident, said to be the first of its kind in the history of the county Circuit Court, came minutes after a jury returned a guilty verdict in a rape trial.

The defendant, Gordon Leon Contee, 23, of Quince Orchard, went berserk, screamed "kill me now," and made a dash in the direction of the court room window.

His wife began sobbing hysterically, and his half brother, Melvin William Smith, 29, of Gettysburg, leaped forward and began punching a detective holding Contee.

Then the disorder subsided as quickly as it began. Contee and his half brother were placed in the county jail.

But meanwhile, some 30 county policemen and state troopers swarmed into the court house in response to a riot call.

Circuit Judge James H. Pugh and Judge Kathryn J. Lawlor presided at the trial. Judge Pugh said the county's four circuit judges will confer in the near future.

"Too little and too late. Will it be said of you?"

Market Owner Shot To Death And Robbed

CATONSVILLE, Md. (AP)—The owner of a market was shot to death and robbed as he arrived home in his car at this Baltimore suburb early Sunday.

Police said the victim was George A. Langenfelder, 41. He was believed to have had the market connected with the trial, ket receipts with him, but authorities did not know how much money was missing. His wallet also was missing. Money was found on the floor of last June 29 was struck by some, the front seat of the car.

Police had an alarm out for two the courtroom disorder. No charge or three men traveling in a two-tone car. The description was salient, believed to be a woman sketchy.

Officials of two hospitals, a school and an old persons' home said they knew little about the late Roland N. Phelps of suburban Glen Burnie or his reasons for selecting them as recipients.
When Phelps died in 1953 at the age of 80, his estate was left in trust to his wife, Annie, during her lifetime. Mrs. Phelps died last Nov. 2, also at 80. Both of them had moved to a Lutherville nursing home before Phelps' death.

Beneficiaries are the Maryland School for the blind, South Baltimore General Hospital, Presbyterian Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and the Aged Women's and Aged Men's Homes. The First National Bank, trustee of the estate, said each would receive about $250,000.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—It took Buddy the wedding of Ely Norland, Adler only five minutes after he Miss Denmark in the 1958 Miss saw the rushes of Mary Ure, who Universe contest, and James took Joan Collins' place in "Sons Darren, is set for the day after and Lovers," to cast her in an Christmas. They had hoped to go to Evy's home in Copenhagen for the ceremony, but Jimmy won't be finished with "Reach for Tomorrow" (formerly "Let No Man Write My Epitaph").
The young couple found a church in Hollywood they liked, and they'll be married there on movie "Look Back in Anger," Dec. 26. After James completes "Reach for Tomorrow," they'll go to Europe on a honeymoon and a visit to Evy's family.
Jack Entratter flew in from Las Vegas to see the preview of "Who Was That Lady," starring Tony Curtis, Dean Martin and Janet Leigh. Dean, who is currently appearing at the Sands Hotel, couldn't make it, but from all indications he's got Jimmy last year and he told me another hit he can chalk up.
"I can't remember when I last here and New York where have laughed so hard," said Jack, and his late wife stopped on "the picture is so funny." Tony route to Hollywood, and they and Janet, as the married couple, were fascinated with the little get into some of the darndest situations with the FBI trying to get find it on the map, but I'm sure Tony out of the phoney position it must exist somewhere.
Dean has put him in, Dean, as Maybe Jimmy will talk to usual, is at his funniest best. Without any effort of histrionics, lot — Columbia, preparing the he always comes off so well.
"Jimmy Durante Story," and I'm sure I can say that prove more about the identity of duer Norman Krasna and director Mrs. Calabash. By the way, George Sidney both also have a hit on their hands for Columbia, celebrate their 28th wedding anniversary Feb. 1.
1960 looms brightly for Fernando Lamas and Arlene Dahl who little more than a year ago, were in the dumps matrimonially speaking, and careerwise. Patching up their marriage has brought them luck it seems. Fernando will star in the $4,000,000 production of "Simon Bolivar"—and Arlene is getting raves over her performance, not her beauty for a change, in "Journey to the Center of the Earth."
Also, it will be a warm family reunion for them this Christmas. Fernando's 13-year-old daughter, Alexandra, has arrived from South America to spend the holidays with her father and Arlene in New York. Lamas hasn't seen this child by his former marriage since she was eight. Soon after the first of the year, Arlene makes a trip to Italy to see about starring in "Lysistrata."
I'll gladly offer Martha Hyer a job as a writer when she gets back from her "paid jaunt around the world" starting in "Mistress of the World"—she's good! She writes:
"We're shooting now in Siam, in Bangkok, along the River Kwai (from the movie of the same title). The mosquitoes are so big and smart I can't help but believe Vincent Price and some of the science fiction units are responsible for them."
I attended the Thailand Academy Awards presentations—and they had as much trouble with their timing as we had with ours last year. There was a stye show that would have sent Edith Head straight to Menninger's. Also a beauty contest with the prize going to the least bowlegged girl in the group—a difficult choice!
"But seriously, the people are warm and friendly and we have been treated wonderfully in this colorful and exciting Bangkok with its many jeweled temples and palaces. Next stop—Christmas in Berlin."

Another Red Siren Song

World Communism, like the painted lady whose attempts to gain respectability were impeded by frequent moral lapses, again is trying to woo the workers of the world with the siren song of coexistence.

The latest appeal — this time to the European Social Democratic (Socialist) parties — is for a new united front of Communists, Socialists, and trade union members. As explained by Kommunist, organ of the Communist Party Central Committee of the Soviet Union. "The Communists have their own ideology, but that doesn't mean that co-operation between Communists and Socialists is impossible."

This lure has a familiar ring to those who recall the heyday of such coalitions from 1935 to 1933. These uneasy marriages were prompted by the need to offset the political power of rising Fascist groups. Since World War II, the disavowal of Stalinism in February 1956 gave ground for Soviet hopes of a new "popular front" in Europe. But the appeal founded on the revulsion which stirred Russian military action to suppress the Hungarian rebellion late the same year.

Now the Communists apparently feel conditions fostered by the "spirit of Camp David" are auspicious for another front overture. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is proclaiming that Soviet Communism now is ready to drop its goal of world revolution and cooperate to achieve social reforms by parliamentary means.

There is no evidence that the Socialist parties of Europe are ready to welcome the dog into the manger. The last Red appeal in 1956 met with a blunt "no" when 17 European members of the council of the Socialist International supported a resolution which declared: "The changes of Communist tactics . . . are not adequate proof of a genuine change in the principles and policies of Communist dictatorship."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Does It Matter?

One goes to a dinner party. The company is charming; the women are expensively gowned; the men are of some importance. The food is good, even costly.

The conversation these days takes on three characteristics:

1. The kind of gossip which used to be the province of servants and runners for blackmailers. This is presumed to be polite because it omits the three forbidden subjects — politics, religion and economics. Gossip always has a mysterious sex overtone which is a pleasant dessert;

2. If anyone is present who regards himself as somewhat superior, that person, male or female, feels called upon to speak of the United States as degenerating, of our economy as being on the verge of collapse, of our political system as being obsolescent, of our educational system as being the worst in the world.

At very fancy parties in New York, it is chic to have a few foreigners, maybe a couple of titled foreigners, either associated with the United Nations or refugees who live, the Lord only know how. They usually agree with any denunciation of the United States or any particular phase of the life of this country. In fact, they are quite willing to establish the superiority of a country which no longer permits them to live in it over our country which gives them houseroom;

3. The third group usually consists of Russia worshippers. Sometimes one encounters among such an occasional literate person with some measure of knowledge. Usually, the Russia worshippers fall into three general classes: Communists, fellow-travellers, left-wingers, or tourists who have been on a swift look-see of two or three Russian cities, or stylish conversationalists who are willing to go with any tide that is current. It is fun to trip such conversationalists by asking about facts that can be found in an encyclopedia, dictionary or manual. Before a fact, they flee as the Devil does from holy water.

The masochism of some Americans is well-known and not altogether unexpected, particularly among the well-to-do. Back in the 1890s and 1900s it was characteristic of the very rich to purchase all sorts of titled husbands whom they supported. It seemed compulsively important for such families to become united with the decaying and even decadent families of feudal Europe. Today, when in most countries new titles are not being created and older ones are no longer legitimate, it continues to be compulsively important for hostesses to have a few who bear feudal handles to their surnames to sit at their tables and to speak of the United States disdainfully.

That would not be so bad were it not that there are Americans about who are willing to permit contumacious and untruthful statements to be made about their country. A colloquy of this nature is of recent vintage:

American female: If Nixon is elected President, I shall leave this country.

American male: I presume you prefer Khrushchev.

American female: This country is becoming decadent.

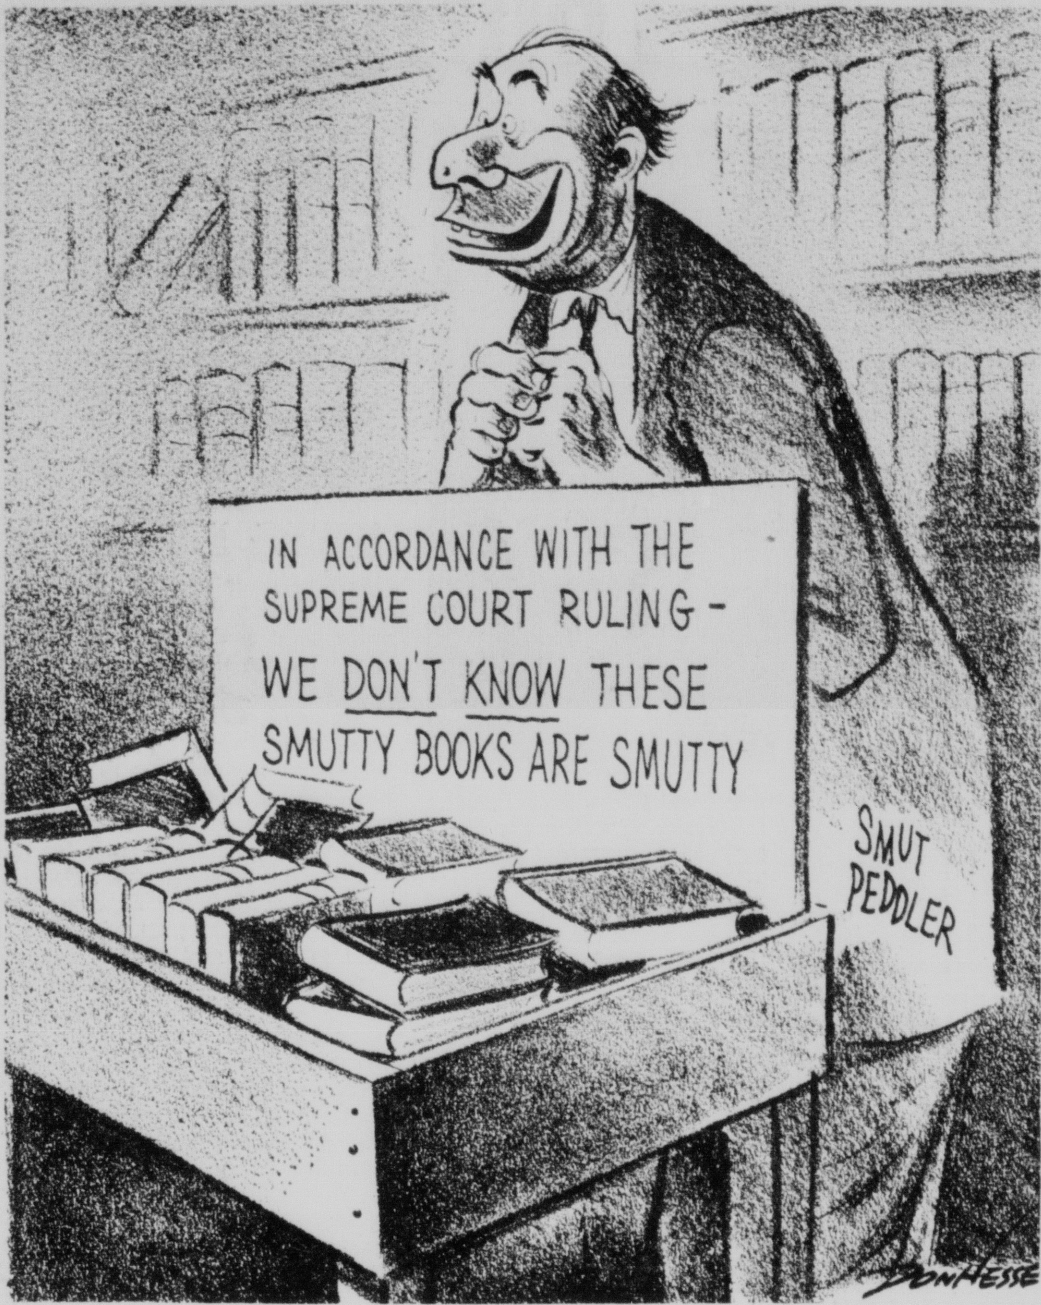

American male: You are so decadently charming. Angry naturalized American: You ignoramus! You do not appreciate what a privilege it is to live in America. You should be grateful that you are permitted to live here.

American female: My ancestors came here in 1620. Angry naturalized American: That was before Stalin, Hitler and Khrushchev. You understand nothing.

It is interesting to listen to Americans degrade themselves. Unfortunately so many of our people assume that because one is vehement and effervescent, she really knows what she is talking about or if it is a he, that because he is titled, he is familiar with the affairs of the country of his origin. He may, in fact, be working for an insurance agency or a fancy jeweler, or acting like a Parisian commissionaire, leading his customers gently into shops which pay him 15 per cent.

The time has surely come when even politeness does not require any American to accept umbrage. Criticism can be taken; umbrage is unforgiveable. But even the critic needs to know what he is talking about. The American lady, whose conversation I paraphrase, is a composite of many persons and many conversations none of which are tolerable.

Television, Radio Don't Need Federal Controls

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Television and the press have been performing an extraordinary service in bringing so quickly to the American people the pictures of President Eisenhower's trip abroad. No other generation of Americans has been able to get so promptly a visual presentation of events of such international importance. This is due largely, of course, to invention — the electronic tape that records voices and pictures, the cable lines that now transmit photographs almost instantaneously, and the airplane that brings films back to America in a few hours.

But there is something else involved — the alertness of private enterprise. The competition in the press and among broadcasting companies — television as well as radio — inspired the news managers who did the planning weeks ahead of time.

Yet today there is talk of government control of the mediums of expression. There are champions of government ownership of a radio network and advocates of government dictation on how programs on public affairs, educational subjects and everything else, including the most highly controversial questions, shall be handled by TV and radio.

The concept is advanced that the government owns the air waves and hence should control what goes out over them. It's the same old argument that, because the government owns the waters and its dams, it must own electric-power plants, or that, because the government can commandeer the natural resources of the nation, it should go into the oil business or the coal business just as the Communist governments do.

But does the government of the United States own all the air, or is this something reserved to the people? Originally, when radio came into being, it was discovered that there would be a collision of broadcasts on the air waves unless the available channels were allotted. The government's role was that of a traffic cop. It set out to regulate the transmission of broadcasts through the issuance of licenses and the allocation of channels. But nobody thought at the time that this covered the prerogatives of ownership. Certainly the traffic departments of the states and cities do not have to own all the autos and trucks whose movements they regulate in order to avoid collisions and other accidents.

Unfortunately, the Supreme Court of the United States swallowed the so-called "liberal" doctrine — which in reality, if followed to its logical conclusion, often becomes totalitarian — and began issuing rulings that indicated wider and wider governmental powers over radio stations. Instead of constraining the language of the federal law as meaning control over mechanical conflicts in the air, the executive agencies concerned were told to regulate radio licenses on a broader basis. The clause in the law covering "public interest, convenience and necessity" was interpreted to mean that the federal government has the power to go into program quality, qualifications of owners and sundry other questions that are never raised when government contracts are let in other fields.

The recent agitation over quiz shows and scandals now seems to have opened the way for the government-ownership school to call for the exercise of more federal authority. There are suggestions, for instance, that the government should go into the field of education by setting up broadcasting stations with government money. Some of the pressure groups which have been trying to get more and more federal funds for schools claim to be opposed to federal control of the educational systems of the PRESS CONFERENCES — Reporters covering the State Department are less than happy over Secretary Christian Herter's attitude toward his press conferences, the principal device that links the public to government foreign policy.

Herter has now held four such meetings with the press in the months he has been in office and each, in its way, has been unsatisfactory. His most recent meeting found him vague, unresponsive, and at times withdrawn and almost hostile.

After 30 minutes of probing questions and short, negative and noncommittal answers, newsmen went away puzzled and without much news. There is a feeling that he does not like press conferences, that he would rather talk to reporters informally on a basis where he would not be quoted directly.

This probably stems from several unhappy press conference experiences in which he has made statements that have cast his view of policy in a false light and necessitated later correction.

Unlike the late John Foster Dulles, who looked upon the press as an opportunity to tell his side of a story, Herter has shown irritation at times over what he has interpreted as an effort by reporters to trap him into making unwise or ill-advised comments.

The press had to persuade Herter to hold a press conference prior to President Eisenhower's departure on his European-Asian tour, but there are indications that he will not be so persuaded often. The outlook is for fewer such conferences, more informal meetings, and more mimeographed "handouts."

Don't Waste Money With 'Reducing' Quacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How many overweight Americans fell for the hundreds of fraudulent reducing products and schemes last year? Several million, if it is true that more than 100 million dollars were spent on spurious diet aids and useless mechanical devices. I'll bet my last dollar that 95 per cent of these customers remain fat, even though they may have lost a few pounds for their efforts.

The weight reducing field is a rich plum for promoters. The stout person has an excellent appetite and loves to eat. He refuses to recognize that he must eat less to lose weight. The majority of fatties are looking for an easier way; they are willing suckers for any pill, potion, diet, or mechanical gadget that offers the slightest ray of hope.

Save your money, because there is no such product. When one is discovered, you'll hear about it from reliable sources. Meanwhile, don't fall for false promises.

The demand for an easier non-obesity method often stems from desperation. It is imperative for some to shed weight because the added blubber is endangering health. This is especially true of the victim of diabetes, heart trouble, or high blood pressure. For others, obesity is a cosmetic or esthetic problem and is a blow to their vanity or social status.

Physicians rely upon motivation, low caloric menus, and the occasional use of preparations that depress appetite or stimulate metabolism. Drugs of this type are prescription products and are too dangerous to take except under supervision. Sometimes they are sold as patent medicines. They contain only small doses, and are not effective.

Fat deposits do not melt or break up as those who sell electric vibrators want us to believe. Fat must be changed chemically into water, carbon dioxide, and other substances to leave the body via lungs and kidneys. No vitamins or minerals can cause weight loss. These products often are sold as supplements or aids but are valueless unless the individual adheres to a slimming diet.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a reducing diet if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Officer Mullooney was the stupidest clunk on the Sasparilla Falls' police force, but his father-in-law was mayor — and president of the bank — so there was no way of remedying the situation. One night his chief told Mullooney, "There's a buzzard been carting apples out of Farmer Klopfer's orchard every night. I want you to catch him red-handed."

Late that night, Mullooney spotted a man sneaking off the Klopfer premises with a heavy sack. "Mull" collared him and emptied the sack on the ground. Out tumbled a silver tea set, a Picasso miniature, and Mrs. Klopfer's sable coat. "Golly, I'm sorry," apologized Mullooney. "I thought you was stealing apples."

Henry C. Adams writes that he was returning by train from Iowa to California when he spied a cute little girl walking down the aisles of the Pullman. "Are you going to California?", Adams asked her. "No," she replied politely, "I'm going to the bathroom."

Eisenhower, King Mohammed V Harassed By Divided Objectives

By Drew Pearson

Picturesque Monarch

When the king granted me an audience some time ago, he sat on a low golden throne dressed in white flowing robes which left only his hands and face exposed. He had just ridden to prayers on a white mule harnessed in red leather. A golden umbrella was held over him, as black Moroccan troops riding on white horses, with red harnesses and red fezzes, escorted him to the mosque. It was a picturesque and beautiful spectacle of an old world monarch in old world surroundings, in a country where the most modern weapons of war were based for retaliatory attack.

"In the past," the king told me, "my ancestors had excellent relations with the United States. Unfortunately, they were disrupted for a time by certain problems, but I am happy that we are closer together again."

The king spoke with sincerity. But the strident voice of Arab nationalism has become stronger and stronger in Morocco. So has the voice of Moroccan democracy. Both voices cry with a single objective—oust the U.S. Air Force.

Mohammed V is one of the more moderate rulers of North Africa. Times have changed since his ancestor, Sultan Moulay Ismail, practiced the technique of mounting a horse and cutting off a slave's head simultaneously.

Mohammed V still keeps two wives behind veils and under wraps, but his handsome daughters swim in bikinis on the beaches near Rabat, with U.S. airmen and young Mohammedans fluttering around them. The king is a devoted father, gentle, pious, works hard at the job of ruling Morocco which he loves, but not hard at the job of shaving which he hates. He likes to drive his own car and on occasion bowls with his hook.

Friend Of FDR

Mohammed V has been working at the job of ruling Morocco—intermittently—ever since he was eighteen. Intermittent interruptions were caused by the French, who picked him over an elder brother in the first place because they figured he would be easier to handle. They were wrong. They were so wrong that in 1953 they had to banish Mohammed to Madagascar, then bring him back when French rule over Morocco went to pot.

When he came back the independence of Morocco was proclaimed. The French are still there, but on sufferance. Their status is less certain than that of the United States.

Many Moroccans have a soft spot in their hearts for the USA, because it was Franklin D. Roosevelt, meeting with Churchill in Casablanca in 1943, who insisted that Mohammed, then sultan, be given an audience. And despite Churchill's frowns, FDR therewith gave Morocco a push toward nationalism.

That push has carried so far that Mohammed's own party, the Istiqlal, claim he isn't achieving the "revolution." They want faster reform and the American Air Force out. The Air Force pumps about $50,000,000 a year into the Moroccan economy; directly or indirectly employs 10,000 Moroccans; also wins $40,000,000 of outright economic aid for Morocco. On the whole American troops are well-behaved and relations excellent.

But that makes no difference. The politicians want American troops out. So the huge U.S. supply base at Nouasseur and the strategic bomber base at Sidi Slimane, where B-47 Bomber crews are so much on the alert that they have to go to the barbershop together, are now getting ready to pack up. Unless Ike's talk with the gentle-voiced monarch with the will of steel changes things, they will be gone in 1960.

Note—Eisenhower caught a cold and was confined to his bed when Mohammed V paid his state visit to Washington in 1957. He was able to confer with the king for only about ten minutes. The meeting in Rabat, therefore, will be their first real chance to get acquainted.

If this newspaper were run like television, it would read like this:

Last night Premier Khrushchev's personal plane, on a routine flight from Moscow to Minsk, fell out of control and came screaming down from an altitude of 30,000 feet. Aboard were the Premier, the foreign minister, and four field marshals. But first, a word of caution for you men. Are you still spending precious dollars on new shaving equipment when you could have Rehone for only pennies a day? Rehone sharpens your old blades, gives back the edge to you. Why buy new blades? Your whiskers aren't new. Be a gay blade with your old blade—try Rehone, Rehone, Rehone.

The plane fell straight down at 700 miles per hour. At 5,000 feet, the pilot, who was later found to be a Trotsky defector, pulled the big TU-4 into a shallow dive and landed gracefully at the airport. The smiling Soviet Premier said that he was not shaken up, that the experience was no worse than falling out of a bed at Blair House in Washington. A new pilot will replace the dead one.

In the Nation's Capital, the President told his press conference that he had decided to resign, but first a word from Damp Beer. Some beers are wet. Some are dry, ladies and gentlemen, but Damp Beer is the only one that can be blotted. It is the beer that doesn't pour. Simply remove the top and dig the stuff out with a spoon. For those men of discerning taste who cannot seem to get a belt from beer, a new secret ingredient has been added to Damp Beer—booze. Try the handy little carryall package of seven. Just ask your friendly grocer for the Blastoff carton.

The President announced that he could no longer, in good conscience, remain a member of the Cub Scouts of America and would resign at once. When pressed for a reason by the shocked members of the press, Mr. Eisenhower said that Mrs. Eisenhower suggested that he ought to grow up. The President said that the State Department had consulted friendly powers about the impending move, and that there were no objections which could not be overcome at a Council of Foreign Ministers.

On the local scene, a holdup man walked into the Last National Bank at 3 p.m. today and presented a note to blonde, vivacious Miss Jean Lowbridge. The note demanded $10,000 and Miss Lowbridge, a blonde, vivacious girl, asked the stranger how he wanted it.

While he was pondering she gave it to him in pennies, pitching them in packages of a hundred. The man fled with a broken nose and was seen boarding a school bus just leaving the local Reform School.

At 6 p.m. an eight-state alarm was sent out for the bus, and the 32 innocent children aboard it. The bank wanted to reward Miss Lowbridge, a blonde, vivacious girl, but when her assets were examined, she was found to be $37,000 short. In Washington, Congressman Rufus L. Ruse announced at once that his committee will begin on Monday to investigate what he refers to as Bank Tellers Payola.

The mayor returned from a short four-month visit to the island of Pago-Pago saying that the Council will simply have to vote more money. He doesn't know where it's going to come from, he says, but these friendly visits—accompanied by his relatives—cost money and someone is going to have to pay. When he comes up for election in the spring, the mayor said, he is going to run on a platform of no taxes at all. Asked how he could reconcile this with the cost of his visits, accompanied by his relatives, to such places as Pago Pago, the mayor said that the problems are not related, and that the Council is going to have to dig up the moala some place. It's their problem, he said, not mine.

Another Red Siren Song

World Communism, like the painted lady whose attempts to gain respectability were impeded by frequent moral lapses, again is trying to woo the workers of the world with the siren song of coexistence.

The latest appeal — this time to the European Social Democratic (Socialist) parties — is for a new united front of Communists, Socialists, and trade union members. As explained by Kommunist, organ of the Communist Party Central Committee of the Soviet Union, "The Communists have their own ideology, but that doesn't mean that co-operation between Communists and Socialists is impossible."

This lure has a familiar ring to those who recall the heyday of such coalitions from 1935 to 1933. These uneasy marriages were prompted by the need to offset the political power of rising Fascist groups. Since World War II, the disavowal of Stalinism in February 1956 gave ground for Soviet hopes of a new "popular front" in Europe. But the appeal foundered on the revulsion which stirred Russian military action to suppress the Hungarian rebellion late the same year.

Now the Communists apparently feel conditions fostered by the "spirit of Camp David" are auspicious for another front overture. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is proclaiming that Soviet Communism now is ready to drop its goal of world revolution and cooperate to achieve social reforms by parliamentary means.

There is no evidence that the Socialist parties of Europe are ready to welcome the dog into the manger. The last Red appeal in 1956 met with a blunt "no" when 17 European members of the council of the Socialist International supported a resolution which declared: "The changes of Communist tactics . . . are not adequate proof of a genuine change in the principles and policies of Communist dictatorship."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Does It Matter?

One goes to a dinner party. The company is charming; the women are expensively gowned; the men are of some importance. The food is good, even costly.

The conversation these days takes on three characteristics:

1. The kind of gossip which used to be the province of servants and runners for blackmailers. This is presumed to be polite because it omits the three forbidden subjects — politics, religion and economics. Gossip always has a mysterious sex overtone which is a pleasant dessert.

2. If anyone is present who regards himself as somewhat superior, that person, male or female, feels called upon to speak of the United States as degenerating, of our economy as being on the verge of collapse, of our political system as being obsolescent, of our educational system as being the worst in the world.

At very fancy parties in New York, it is chic to have a few foreigners, maybe a couple of titled foreigners, either associated with the United Nations or refugees who live, the Lord only know how. They usually agree with any denunciation of the United States or any particular phase of the life of this country. In fact, they are quite willing to establish the superiority of a country which no longer permits them to live in it over our country which gives them housework;

3. The third group usually consists of Russia worshippers. Sometimes one encounters among such an occasional literate person with some measure of knowledge. Usually, the Russia worshippers fall into three general classes: Communists, fellow-travellers, left-wingers, or tourists who have been on a swift look-see of two or three Russian cities, or stylish conversationalists who are willing to go with any tide that is current. It is fun to trip such conversationalists by asking about facts that can be found in an encyclopedia, dictionary or manual. Before a fact, they flee as the Devil does from holy water.

The masochism of some Americans is well-known and not altogether unexpected, particularly among the well-to-do. Back in the 1890s and 1900s it was characteristic of the very rich to purchase all sorts of titled households whom they supported. It seemed compulsively important for such families to become united with the decaying and even decadent families of feudal Europe. Today, when in most countries new titles are not being created and older ones are no longer legitimate, it continues to be compulsively important for hostesses to have a few who bear feudal handles to their surnames to sit at their tables and to speak of the United States disdainfully.

That would not be so bad were it not that there are Americans about who are willing to permit contumacious and untruthful statements to be made about their country. A colloquy of this nature is of recent vintage:

American female: If Nixon is elected President, I shall leave this country.

American male: I presume you prefer Khrushchev.

American female: This country is becoming decadent.

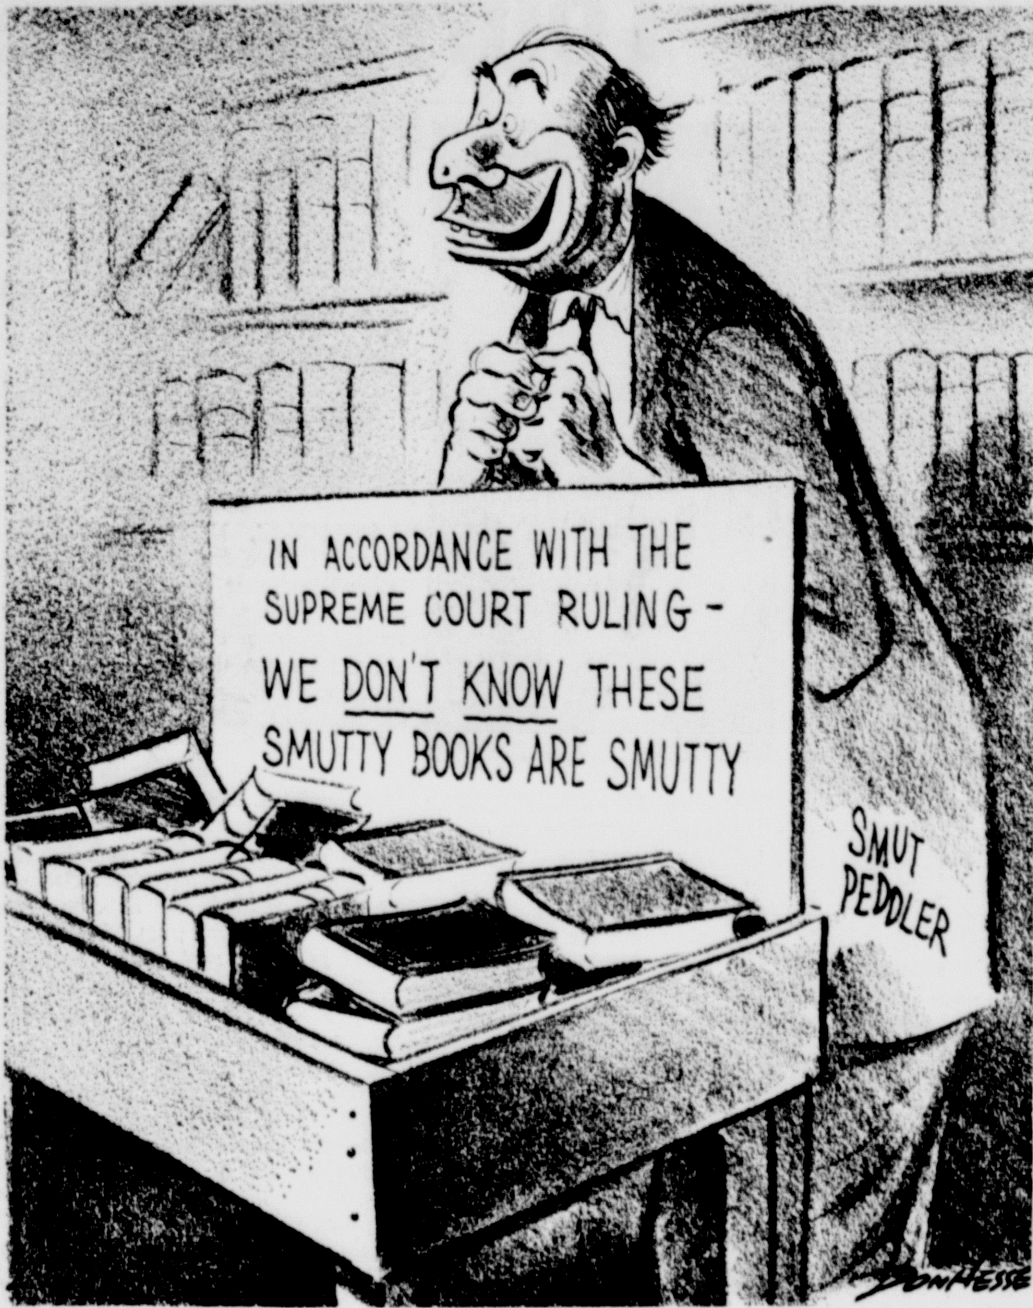

American male: You are so decadently charming. Angry naturalized American: You ignoramus! You do not appreciate what a privilege it is to live in America. You should be grateful that you are permitted to live here.

American female: My ancestors came here in 1620. Angry naturalized American: That was before Stalin, Hitler and Khrushchev. You understand nothing.

It is interesting to listen to Americans degrade themselves. Unfortunately so many of our people assume that because one is vehement and effervescent, she really knows what she is talking about or if it is a he, that because he is titled, he is familiar with the affairs of the country of his origin. He may, in fact, be working for an insurance agency or a fancy jeweler, or acting like a Parisian commissionaire, leading his customers gently into shops which pay him 15 per cent.

The time has surely come when even politeness does not require any American to accept umbrage. Criticism can be taken; umbrage is unforgivable. But even the critic needs to know what he is talking about. The American lady, whose conversation I paraphrase, is a composite of many persons and many conversations none of which are tolerable.

Television, Radio Don't Need Federal Controls

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Television and the press have been performing an extraordinary service in bringing so quickly to the American people the pictures of President Eisenhower's trip abroad. No other generation of Americans has been able to get so promptly a visual presentation of events of such international importance. This is due largely, of course, to invention — the electronic tape that records voices and pictures, the cable lines that now transmit photographs almost instantaneously, and the airplane that brings films back to America in a few hours.

But there is something else involved — the alertness of private enterprise. The competition in the press and among broadcasting companies — television as well as radio — inspired the news managers who did the planning weeks ahead of time.

Yet today there is talk of government control of the mediums of expression. There are champions of government ownership of a radio network and advocates of government dictation on how programs on public affairs, educational subjects and everything else, including the most highly controversial questions, shall be handled by TV and radio.

The concept is advanced that the government owns the air waves and hence should control what goes out over them. It's the same old argument that, because the government owns the waters and its dams, it must own electric-power plants, or that, because the government can commandeer the natural resources of the nation, it should go into the oil business or the coal business just as the Communist governments do.

But does the government of the United States own all the air, or is this something reserved to the people? Originally, when radio came into being, it was discovered that there would be a collision of broadcasts on the air waves unless the available channels were allotted. The government's role was that of a traffic cop. It set out to regulate the transmission of broadcasts through the issuance of licenses and the allocation of channels. But nobody thought at the time that this covered the prerogatives of ownership. Certainly the traffic departments of the states and cities do not have to own all the autos and trucks whose movements they regulate in order to avoid collisions and other accidents.

Unfortunately, the Supreme Court of the United States swallowed the so-called "liberal" doctrine — which in reality, if followed to its logical conclusion, often becomes totalitarian — and began issuing rulings that indicated wider and wider governmental powers over radio stations. Instead of constraining the language of the federal law as meaning control over mechanical conflicts in the air, the executive agencies concerned were told to regulate radio licenses, on a broader basis. The clause in the law covering "public interest, convenience and necessity" was interpreted to mean that the federal government has the power to go into program quality, qualifications of owners and sundry other questions that are never raised when government contracts are let in other fields.

The recent agitation over quiz shows and scandals now seems to have opened the way for the government-ownership school to call for the exercise of more federal authority. There are suggestions, for instance, that the government should go into the field of education by setting up broadcasting stations with government money. Some of the pressure groups which have been trying to get more and more federal funds for schools claim to be opposed to federal control of the educational systems of the country but nevertheless are lined up in favor of the extension of federal governmental authority to carry on various "educational" programs over TV and radio.

There is already law enough to punish fraud and to stop misrepresentation or misleading advertising. But if the end result of the recent TV scandals is to take away from private enterprise the initiative stimulated by American competition, then the cure will prove much worse than the disease. The political consequences of such a debacle and its effect on the American system of government could be grave. For if any Administration in Washington really controlled the air waves and could dictate what was done with them, the word "educational" could easily acquire the connotation given by a jury verdict recently with respect to political broadcasts paid for out of union dues. Despite the provision in the Taft-Hartley Act that a union may not use its general funds for political contributions, the union was upheld in its contention that its partisan telecasts, heard by the public, during the 1954 election campaigns in Michigan were merely a means of "educating" its members.

Congress has already interfered with the right of radio and television, as mediums of expression, to use their own news judgment as protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. Thus, laws have been passed ordering that "equal time" be afforded to all candidates for a public office, irrespective of whether there is news or interest among listeners in the boring words of some of the candidates. There is no surer way of ruining any medium of communication than to give the government any power to tell a private enterprise how to deal with political speeches or any other program. Censorship of the theater or of books is resented by many so-called "liberals," but somehow there is a strange readiness to accept censorship of TV and radio.

Inside Washington

PRESS CONFERENCES — Reporters covering the State Department are less than happy over Secretary Christian Herter's attitude toward his press conferences, the principal device that links the public to government foreign policy.

Herter has now held four such meetings with the press in the months he has been in office and each, in its way, has been unsatisfactory. His most recent meeting found him vague, unresponsive, and at times withdrawn and almost hostile.

After 30 minutes of probing questions and short, negative and noncommittal answers, newsmen went away puzzled and without much news. There is a feeling that he does not like press conferences, that he would rather talk to reporters informally on a basis where he would not be quoted directly.

This probably stems from several unhappy press conference experiences in which he has made statements that have cast his view of policy in a false light and necessitated later correction.

Unlike the late John Foster Dulles, who looked upon the press as an opportunity to tell his side of a story, Herter has shown irritation at times over what he has interpreted as an effort by reporters to trap him into making unwise or ill-advised comments.

The press had to persuade Herter to hold a press conference prior to President Eisenhower's departure on his European-Asian tour, but there are indications that he will not be so persuaded often. The outlook is for fewer such conferences, more informal meetings, and more mimeographed "handouts."

Don't Waste Money With 'Reducing' Quacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How many overweight Americans fell for the hundreds of fraudulent reducing products and schemes last year? Several million, if it is true that more than 100 million dollars were spent on spurious diet aids and useless mechanical devices. I'll bet my last dollar that 95 per cent of these customers remain fat, even though they may have lost a few pounds for their efforts.

The weight reducing field is a rich plum for promoters. The stout person has an excellent appetite and loves to eat. He refuses to recognize that he must eat less to lose weight. The majority of fatties are looking for an easier way; they are willing suckers for any pill, potion, diet, or mechanical gadget that offers the slightest ray of hope.

Save your money, because there is no such product. When one is discovered, you'll hear about it from reliable sources. Meanwhile, don't fall for false promises.

The demand for an easier non-obesity method often stems from desperation. It is imperative for some to shed weight because the added blubber is endangering health. This is especially true of the victim of diabetes, heart trouble, or high blood pressure. For others, obesity is a cosmetic or esthetic problem and is a blow to their vanity or social status.

Physicians rely upon motivation, low caloric menus, and the occasional use of preparations that depress appetite or stimulate metabolism. Drugs of this type are prescription products and are too dangerous to take except under supervision. Sometimes they are sold as patent medicines. They contain only small doses, and are not effective.

Fat deposits do not melt or break up as those who sell electric vibrators want us to believe. Fat must be changed chemically into water, carbon dioxide, and other substances to leave the body via lungs and kidneys. No vitamins or minerals can cause weight loss. These products often are sold as supplements or aids but are valueless unless the individual adheres to a slimming diet.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a reducing diet if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Officer Mullooney was the stupidest clunk on the Sasparrilla Falls police force, but his father-in-law was mayor — and president of the bank — so there was no way of remedying the situation. One night his chief told Mullooney, "There's a buzzard been carping apples out of Farmer Klopfer's orchard every night. I want you to catch him red-handed."

Late that night, Mullooney spotted a man sneaking off the Klopfer premises with a heavy sack. "Mull" collared him and emptied the sack on the ground. Out tumbled a silver tea set, a Picasso miniature, and Mrs. Klopfer's sable coat. "Golly, I'm sorry," apologized Mullooney. "I thought you was stealing apples."

Henry C. Adams writes that he was returning by train from Iowa to California when he spied a cute little girl walking down the aisles of the Pullman. "Are you going to California?" Adams asked her. "No," she replied politely. "I'm going to the bathroom."

Eisenhower, King Mohammed V Harassed By Divided Objectives

By Drew Pearson

Picturesque Monarch

EN ROUTE—Two men, both with divided objectives and emotions, will sit down opposite each other tomorrow in the beautiful emerald-tiled throneroom in ancient Rabat.

King Mohammed V of Morocco, will be divided between his own personal friendship for the United States and the strident demands of his subjects that he push American military bases into the sea.

President Eisenhower will be divided by knowledge that these bases have been the most important in the world for the USA, second to none except that in Thule, Greenland. They have been a pistol at the Kremlin's head, with B-47 Bomber crews on night-and-day alert ready to take off Moscow-ward, each with as much explosive power as all the bombs, all the shots detonated in World War II.

These are the bases the White House has referred to when Russia was threatened with immediate retaliation in case of war.

Yet, the President also knows: 1.—That the new intercontinental ballistic missile, which fires 5,000 miles, will make these Moroccan bases obsolete; 2.—That his better relations with Khrushchev will permit him to save half-a-billion on these bases—if those relations continue.

Nevertheless, as a military man, he would like the right to keep those bases hitherto so vital to American defense.

When the king granted me an audience some time ago, he sat on a low golden throne dressed in white flowing robes which left only his hands and face exposed. He had just ridden to prayers on a white mule harnessed in red leather. A golden umbrella was held over him, as black Moroccan troops riding on white horses, with red harnesses and red fezzes, escorted him to the mosque. It was a picturesque and beautiful spectacle of an old world monarch in old world surroundings, in a country where the most modern weapons of war were based for retaliatory attack.

"In the past," the king told me, "my ancestors had excellent relations with the United States. Unfortunately, they were disrupted for a time by certain problems, but I am happy that we are closer together again."

The king spoke with sincerity. But the strident voice of Arab nationalism has become stronger and stronger in Morocco. So has the voice of Moroccan democracy. Both voices cry with a single objective—oust the U.S. Air Force.

More than a score of tournaments remain in college basketball's annual contribution to the holiday scrambling but from a national rating standpoint you probably can fix your attention on just two.

They would be the ECAC Holiday Festival opening in Madison Square Garden Saturday and continuing Dec. 28 and 30, and the inaugural Los Angeles Holiday Festival in the new Los Angeles Arena Dec. 28, 29 and 30. The ECAC has All-American Oscar Robertson and the better than ever Cincinnati Bearcats (5-0) along with two other unbeaten, New York University (5-0) and Dartmouth (2-0), with the likes of Iowa (5-1), St. John's (NY) (5-2), Manhattan (4-1), St. Joseph's (Pa.) (5-1), and St. Bonaventure (2-2).

W.V.U. Plays On Coast
In the same field in Los Angeles will be California, the defending national collegiate champion now riding a 21-game winning streak and its one-point victory in last year's NCAA title game, West Virginia (8-0). The Mounties are the new champs of the Kentucky Invitation after polishing off Kentucky 79-70 Saturday. Illinois, Michigan, North-western, Stanford, Southern California, and UCLA complete the field, with Illinois (4-0) and Cal's (4-0) being the favorites for first place in the 19-school PVC, each giving a 3-0 record.

Add Ohio State (6-0) to Cal, Cincinnati and West Virginia, and you have the early season Big Four in what so far looks to be one of the liveliest and interesting basketball campaigns since Dr. Naismith, who started it all, had 'em playing in cages.

Louisiana Spilled
Cincinnati, rolling at a 103-point pace, smashed a good Louisville team 97-74 Saturday night as Robertson scored 39 points — three under his season average. The Bearcats have a Tuesday home test with unbeaten Bradley before moving on New York for the tournament.

California, which nipped Colorado 51-47 Friday, showed it still learns Coach Pete Newell's lessons quickly — blasting the same team 79-46 Saturday.

West Virginia was triggered again by All-American Jerry West, who scored 33 points for a two-night total of 70 although he suffered a broken nose in the first half. North Carolina, which went into the tournament in Lexington unbeaten, wound up with two losses — to St. Louis 68-52 in the consolation final Saturday after being beaten by Kentucky opening night.

Buckeyes Go West
Ohio State, idle Saturday, takes on a tough three-game road trip in lieu of a tournament—starting at unbeaten Utah (6-0) Monday night, then to Brigham Young Tuesday and Kentucky Dec. 28. Duke, Manhattan and Memphis State nailed tournament championships and Villanova, Utah, NYU, Illinois, Michigan State, and LaSalle remained unbeaten in their features.

Liked Buc Hurlers

As a club, Cincinnati hit the most homers off the Pirates in 1959, getting 25—six in Forbes Field and 19 in Cincinnati. Frank Robinson led the homerun parade with six and Vada Pinson followed with five.

Tops On Two Wins

BALTIMORE, Md. — Biggest money-winning horse in Maryland this season will be Mrs. Halina Braunstein's Royal Orbit. The California colt won an allowance race and then scored in the $150,000 added Preakness.

Big Season

BALTIMORE, Md. — When a two-year-old named Graphic Aid won at Pimlico on December 7, it was her eighth victory of the year.

PEANUTS

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—In 1869, when Cincinnati sponsored the first all-professional baseball team known as the Red Stockings, the payroll totaled only $9,500.

COACH 33 YEARS

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI)—Dr. Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross is the "dean" of active American college football coaches. The 1939 season was his 33rd as a head coach.

PIG IS WINNER

EPSOM, England (UPI)—One of the strangest events ever seen on a race track took place at Epsom Downs in 1828 when a gelding named The Arrow raced against a pig for 180 yards. The wagering was heavy. The pig won.

BILL'S HAVING A PICNIC, TOO—Something new will be added to Comiskey Park in Chicago next season—a picnic area under the left field stands. It's another Bill Veck touch, and so is the hammering here as Bill helps knock out the wall. There will be tables and benches and fans may leave their seats during the game and enjoy a picnic in this area while watching the game.

Undefeated Paw Paw, Romney Meet Tonight

Elk Garden Visits Bayard; Allegany Quint Loses, 56-48

Undefeated teams will hold the spotlight tonight when the Paw Paw High School Pirates tackle the Romney High School Panthers in Potomac Valley Conference contest on the Romney court.

Romney, sparked by the sharp-shooting Bill Maphis, who has rolled up a total of 134 points in four games for an average of 33.5, has won four games in a row, including a decision over the Alumni, and is tied with Piedmont and Keyser for first place in the 19-school PVC, each giving a 3-0 record.

Clyde Green's Panthers have beaten Ridgeley, 87-45, West Virginia School for the Deaf, 94-47, Fort Ashby 77-60 in the conference.

Glenn Smith's Pirates from Paw Paw are 4-0 for the season and 1-0 in the conference. In the conference the Morgan counties have beaten Capon Bridge 67-37. The Pirates opened with a 76-38 romp over Oldtown and won the Holiday Tournament at Hancock points — three under his season average. The Bearcats have a Tuesday home test with unbeaten Bradley before moving on New York for the tournament.

California, which nipped Colorado 51-47 Friday, showed it still learns Coach Pete Newell's lessons quickly — blasting the same team 79-46 Saturday.

Canadians Top Callers

MONTREAL (AP)—After a survey in 200 countries the Bell Telephone Co. says Canadians now use their phones more than any others. The average Canadian makes 511 calls a year. Icelanders were second with 486 conversations and U.S. citizens third with 472.

Birds Buy Powers

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles Wednesday bought John Powers, a first baseman-outfielder, from the Cincinnati Reds and gave shortstop Chico Carrasquel, a 10-year American League veteran, his unconditional release.

Pete Elliott Meets Illinois Officials

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Tribune said Sunday Pete Elliott, University of California football coach, conferred secretly in Chicago Saturday night with University of Illinois officials on the Illinois football job.

The Tribune said it was informed Elliott was established as the No. 1 candidate for the Illinois vacancy at a meeting of the Illinois Board of Trustees Wednesday.

Illinois is seeking a successor to Ray Eliot who retired.

Olmedo Loses In Pro Debut

Low Head Defeats U. S. Davis Cup Ace

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Alex Olmedo, swarthy Peruvian star of the U.S. Davis Cup team, lost to Australia's Low Head Sunday in his professional tennis debut. But promoter Jack Kramer was delighted.

"It was a terrific debut," Kramer commented happily after his new pro lost 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 to the veteran Aussie before 5,000 fans in outdoor White City Stadium.

"Alex hasn't played a tough match for a long time and I thought he really did well for his first match with us," Kramer added.

"I would have played better," Olmedo said, "but it was the first big game I've played for three months. I needed the competition."

Later, Olmedo showed the Hoad match did some good as he teamed smoothly with Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles to whip Hoad and Australia's Ken Rosewall in doubles, 6-4, 6-4.

Olmedo turned pro last month for a $35,000 first year guarantee from Kramer.

Rodriguez Is 8-5 Choice To Win Over Hart

Miami Beach Scene Of Wednesday Bout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba, new top-ranked welterweight contender, is favored at 8-5 to beat Sugar Hart of Philadelphia Wednesday night at Miami Beach in the only TV fight on the holiday week's very light schedule.

Rodriguez automatically rose from second to first in the 147-pound rankings Friday night, when Charley Scott of Philadelphia—who had been rated tops—was unexpectedly outpointed by unrated Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba at Madison Square Garden.

Hart, who had been ranked third, automatically moved up to the number two perch.

The 10-round fight between Rodriguez and Hart at the Miami Beach Auditorium will be televised nationally by ABC at 10 p. m. e. t., Wednesday.

Rodriguez, 22, is favored because of his "perpetual-motion" attack and his ruggedness. In his 25 professional bouts he never was beaten although he had one "no contest." He seeks his 11th straight victory. His total 24 wins include 17 decisions and seven knockouts.

Hart, 23, is starting a comeback after being stopped in his latest bout with fellow - Philadelphia Scott at Philadelphia, Oct. 9. A dangerous puncher, Hart scored 21 knockouts while winning 28 of his 34 starts. His four defeats included three kayoes. He had two draws.

A good return match is slated for Havana Wednesday night when Rocky Kalingo, 10th - rated welterweight contender from the Philippines, tries to beat slugger Florentino Fernandez of Cuba again. Kalingo registered an upset first-round knockout over Fernandez at Caracas, Venezuela. That kayo dropped Fernandez out of the top 10 ratings.

Hawks Up Lead, Defeat Pistons

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—After jumping to a 17-point lead in the opening three minutes of the second quarter, the St. Louis Hawks finished up with an easy 102-86 win over the Detroit Pistons in a National Basketball Association game Sunday.

The victory, the fifth in a row for the Hawks, increased the St. Louis lead over Detroit in the Western Division to 3½ games.

Cliff Hagan headed the St. Louis attack with 21 points. Walter Dukes was high for Detroit with 20 markers, 16 of them coming in the first half.

It was the second St. Louis victory in less than 24 hours and the fourth Hawk triumph over Detroit in five games.

City League Teams Play At Fort Hill

Three City Basketball League games are scheduled for tonight at Fort Hill High School.

The Old Exports and Roseland will clash at 6:45 p. m., followed by the Loyal Order of Moose and Liberty Trust at 7:45 and the Old Germans and Forty & Eight Club at 8:45.

After tonight's games play will be curtailed until January 4.

St. Peter & Paul vs. Mt. Savage
(Both games at SS. Peter-Paul gym)

Three teams remained tied for first place in the Catholic Youth Basketball League after SS. Peter & Paul, St. Patrick's and St. Mary's won games played here. St. Michael's, the fourth team tied for the league leadership prior to the Sunday games, went down to defeat at the hands of SS. Peter & Paul in the opening game of a twin bill on the Fayette Street court by the score of 38-28.

In the nightcap affair on SS. Peter & Paul court, St. Patrick's of Cumberland trimmed St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage, 49-32, while on St. Mary's court, Coach Dick Blake's Gaels downed St. Peter's of Westernport, 55-32.

Mike Kelly, the league's leading scorer was limited to three field goals and nine points but Mike Madden slammed in six fielders and paced SS. Peter & Paul with a total of 14 points. Dick Delaney was high scorer for the Frostburg quint with eight tallies.

St. Michael's outscored the West Siders 13 to 12 in field goals but blew up at the foul line and made only two conversions in 12 tries. Frostburg sank only one of the West Siders' 13 field goals.

Cliff Hagan headed the St. Louis attack with 21 points. Walter Dukes was high for Detroit with 20 markers, 16 of them coming in the first half.

Penn State, Clemson Cop Bowl Games

Post-Season Tilts To Resume Dec. 25

By GARY KALE
United Press International

A pair of second-string quarterbacks and a regular sophomore signal caller paced Penn State, Clemson and Texas A&I to bowl victories in the first three games of post - season college football play.

Galen Hall, sophomore understudy to All-American Richie Lucas, tossed a touchdown pass in the last play of the opening half to give Penn State a 7-0 triumph over Alabama in the inaugural of the Liberty Bowl.

Lowndes Shingler, Clemson's second unit quarterback, passed for one score, and set up another touchdown and a field goal with his strong aerial arm as the Tigers upset Texas Christian, 23-7, in the first annual Bluebonnet Bowl.

Texas A&I's Jarrell Hayes, a second - year man, beat Lenoir Rhyne at its own passing game with three touchdown heaves that whipped the Bears, 20-7, in the Holiday Bowl.

Battles Resume Dec. 25

The bowl battles resume on Dec. 25 when Central (Okla.) State meets Delta (Miss.) State in the Christmas Festival at Natchitoches, La. On Dec. 26, the National All-Stars and the Southwest All - Stars play in the Copper Bowl, the annual Blue-Gray clash is at Montgomery, Ala., and the North faces the South in the Shrine Game at Miami, Fla.

North Texas State plays New Mexico in the Sun Bowl on Dec. 31 and New Year's Day bill of fares feature Wisconsin and Washington in the Rose, Syracuse and Texas in the Cotton, Mississippi and LSU in the Sugar, Georgia and Missouri in the Orange, Middle Tennessee and Presbyterian in the Tangerine and Prairie View and Wiley (Tex.) in the Prairie View Bowl.

The campaign closes on Jan. 2, with Arkansas vs. Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl and at the East meeting the West in the Shrine classic at San Francisco.

Hall's 18-yard touchdown pass to Roger Kochman was Penn State coach Rip Engle's "secret weapon" against the southerners.

The play developed from a field goal place-kick formation after Alabama twice had held the Nittany Lions inside the 10-yard line.

Instead of kicking specialist Sam Stellatella booting the pigskin, Hall scooped up the ball and tossed a short pass to the speedy Kochman. A phalanx of six blockers guided Kochman over the goal line as time ran out.

Lucas Suffers Injury

Lucas suffered a hip injury earlier in the game setting the stage for Hall's heroics.

Clemson routed Texas Christian with three touchdowns in the final quarter, with Shingler, named the outstanding back in the game, hitting Tommy King in the end zone with a 23-yard toss and first string quarterback Harvey White connecting with Gary Barnes on a 68-yard pass play. Shingler later set up another touchdown with a pass to Harry Pavlick on the two. Ron Scrudato carried it over.

Lon Armstrong boosted a 22-yard field goal to give Clemson an early 3-0 lead, but TCU came back on a 63-yard drive, capped by Jack Reding's 19-yard scoring pass to Harry Moreland.

Hayes fed receivers aeries that covered 32, 74 and 57 yards as Texas A&I won the NAIA championship. Lenoir Rhyne of Hickory, N. C., made its score on a pass from Tony McClamrock to Dick Lage, good for 25 yards.

But Pressley handed two of Hayes' scoring receptions and Dick Watson, a Baylor transfer, caught the other.

West's Nose Broken, Kentucky Gets Shiner

WVU Cops Tourney, 79-70; Robertson Scores 39 Points

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

West Virginia came out of it with a title and Jerry West with a broken nose but that's nothing compared to the shiner they gave Kentucky.

That was the story of Saturday night's big game in which West Virginia beat Kentucky, 79-70, at Lexington, Ky., to win the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and stretch its winning streak to eight games. Third-ranked in the major college basketball ratings last week, the Mountaineers thus made a strong move to challenge Cincinnati for the No. 1 spot.

"It's always a great challenge to play Kentucky on its home floor," said Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaas. "West played his usual great game but he had to share honors in this one with Lee Patrone."

West, the 6-3, 175-pound All-American, scored 33 points and Patrone, a 6-1, 195-pound "minute man" added 21. West suffered the nose injury just before the end of the first half when hit by a stray

Kentucky elbow but he played brilliantly in the second half although his nose

Underwood Says W. Va. To Face Labor Shortage

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said West Virginia will be faced with a serious labor shortage within a few years despite the labor surplus now prevalent in the Mountain State.

Underwood told a conference on community planning Saturday "many able-bodied miners and their families are moving away when their jobs are done."

Underwood, speaking at Wheeling College said some places the only people left are the very old and the unwilling.

The governor said a mine superintendent predicted the shortage "since so few of the young are being apprenticed in the coal mines."

And Underwood said people would continue leaving the state. He said children in the southern West Virginia coal fields are exchanging pop bottles for bread.

In the future these youngsters will be demanding opportunity. If they do not find it they will leave West Virginia," he said.

"We must be concerned about them now if we are to secure the state's future," he declared.

W. Va. Unions Asked To Aid Steelworkers

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The president of the West Virginia Labor Federation AFL-CIO said Sunday some 100,000 union members in the state have been asked to contribute to a fund for the Steelworkers Union.

Miles C. Stanley said some 60,000 federation members and 40,000 other union workmen were being asked to give an hour's pay a month.

This money, estimated at $200,000 a month in West Virginia, would go to the steelworkers who may resume their strike at the end of the Taft-Hartley injunction in January.

The nation's steel industry was halted last July 15 by a walkout when union and management failed to reach an agreement on a new contract.

Work was resumed Nov. 7 for 60 days. Steelworkers President David J. McDonald will be free to resume the 116-day strike Jan. 26 at the conclusion of that period.

"We are anticipating an excellent response," Stanley said. "We believe that every union man realizes this fight involves all organized labor, not just the steelworkers."

Underwood Says W. Va. To Face Labor Shortage

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said West Virginia will be faced with a serious labor shortage within a few years despite the labor surplus now prevalent in the Mountain State.

Underwood told a conference on community planning Saturday "many able-bodied miners and their families are moving away when their jobs are done."

Underwood, speaking at Wheeling College said some places the only people left are the very old and the unwilling.

The governor said a mine superintendent predicted the shortage "since so few of the young are being apprenticed in the coal mines."

And Underwood said people would continue leaving the state. He said children in the southern West Virginia coal fields are exchanging pop bottles for bread.

In the future these youngsters will be demanding opportunity. If they do not find it they will leave West Virginia," he said.

"We must be concerned about them now if we are to secure the state's future," he declared.

W. Va. Unions Asked To Aid Steelworkers

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The president of the West Virginia Labor Federation AFL-CIO said Sunday some 100,000 union members in the state have been asked to contribute to a fund for the Steelworkers Union.

Miles C. Stanley said some 60,000 federation members and 40,000 other union workmen were being asked to give an hour's pay a month.

This money, estimated at $200,000 a month in West Virginia, would go to the steelworkers who may resume their strike at the end of the Taft-Hartley injunction in January.

The nation's steel industry was halted last July 15 by a walkout when union and management failed to reach an agreement on a new contract.

Work was resumed Nov. 7 for 80 days. Steelworkers President David J. McDonald will be free to resume the 116-day strike Jan. 26 at the conclusion of that period.

"We are anticipating an excellent response," Stanley said. "We believe that every union man realizes this fight involves all organized labor, not just the steelworkers."

Women's Golf Unit Holds Yule Party

FROSTBURG — The Women's Golf Association of the Maplehurst Country Club held its annual Christmas party recently at the club house with Mrs. William Wood, president, in charge.

Secrets Of Charm

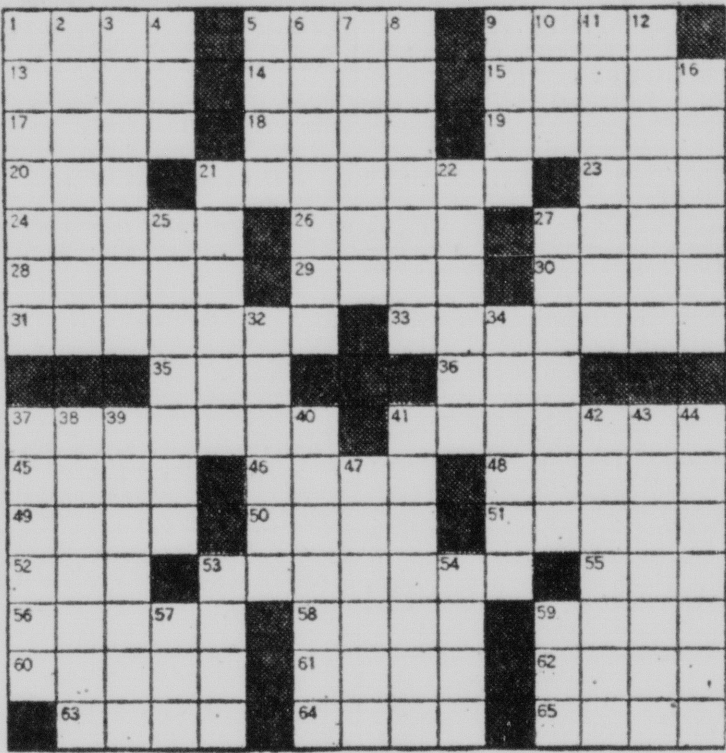

by John Robert Powers

There's No Point In Frail Nails!

It's true — there ARE some women in this world who do nothing but sit around all day with their hands folded. They spend all their time in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, because they're bronze and marble statues. Then why, you may ask, do the fingernails of so many real women point to a look of folded hands leisure? The reason is nailed fast to the WAY in which they use their hands, not to what they do. They don't let their hands become tools. Instead, they teach their hands — with their heads — to implement the proper tools for every job. Even when they are male-saving (taking over heavy chores for a husband or an employer) they are nail-saving, protected with cream and work-gloves. If your nails are weak and brittle, your finger-ends sore and rough, check first your calcium intake. Add a glass or two of milk a day. Then, don't ask your nails to undertake any jobs against their nature . . . prying up staples,

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a bald-headed grandfather with a bay window. He looks every day of his 61 years. Recently his firm (a men's haberdashery and clothing store of excellent reputation) started a new policy. For 30 years they had only men employees. Now they've taken on three women—a common-looking trio, all under 40, with dresses so tight they look like sausage casings. They swap vulgar stories under the chin and make the old bucks think they're sophomores again. I've told my old billy-goat to remember his age and to stay away from these women. Should I go one step further and contact the higher-ups in the organization and suggest they throw the hussies out? —GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Your suggestion to the higher-ups, no matter how well intentioned, would be welcomed like a blizzard in June. They may get the notion you're trying to tell them how to run their store — perish the thought. Forget about going to the brass, and please stop nagging your billy-goat. You may give him ideas he never had before. A man 61 isn't exactly mummified, you know.

DEAR ANN: I'm having serious trouble with my 17-year-old son. He's been going with a lovely girl who is only 13. She's large for her age, and quite grown up in manner. I have reason to believe they are more deeply involved than they should be. He's told me falsehoods about where they went for the evening and many incidents have occurred which have made me suspicious. The girl's parents are separated and she lives with her grandparents. They can't do much about disciplining her. My son's father is dead and I've done my best to raise a large family. When I suggested he take out other girls he said I had no right to pick his friends. What can I do? —B.B.B.

DEAR B.B.B.: You can get some outside help before you get a phone call from the grandmother telling you the girl is in trouble. Your son should not be taking out a 13-year-old. If you can't get through to him ask the football coach, the school principal, your doctor, clergyman or an uncle to talk to him. And good luck—you need it, Mother.

DEAR ANN: The letter about the teen-agers who call themselves "The Antagonizers" was very timely. For the past several weeks I've been getting mysterious phone calls at 2 a.m. and later. The party on the other end hangs up.

My husband died four months ago. My two sons are away at college. It has taken all the courage I can muster to stay in the house alone. Just when I began to get ahold of myself the phone calls started. They've made a sick person out of me. It's torture to be griet-stricken and not be able to get a night's sleep. Some nights I get as many as four calls. I've considered having the phone removed but my only pleasure is the phone calls from my boys. A parent who knows his son is mixed up in such a group and considers it a "playful prank" ought to be hauled into court. The only trouble with your advice, Ann, was that you didn't make it strong enough. —SICK WOMAN

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Partner opens with one no trump and you hold:

AKJ 9 7 5 3 K 10 6 4 A 9 4

What is your response?

A.—Facing a hand that contains as many points, it is highly probable that your holding will produce four hearts and that is the bid recommended by this department. A bid of three hearts would be improper for that would denote more in the way of high cards.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, you have 60 part score and you hold:

AK 4 2 K Q J 10 7 A Q 6 2

Your right opponent opens with one heart.

What do you bid now?

A.—My preference is for a simple overcall of two diamonds. This may seem very strange with a hand containing 20 points. But a take-out double is not recommended because of the danger that partner who may hold a long spade suit will not subside in time if he is asked to come into the auction. The chances of missing a slam by making the simple overcall are distinctly remote for partner would have to produce considerable luck, including power to bring us up to 12 tricks against the vulnerable opening.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK 10 5 K Q 6 K 3 A K Q 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North South

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This is a powerful hand and a mere rebid in one spade would do no justice to the holding. Our vote goes to a rebid of two no trump. This is not forcing if partner has made a weak one over one take-out, but it is more likely to elicit a further bid from partner and at the same time gives a full description of the type and strength of your hand (19 or 20 points).

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AKQJ 7 4 K 10 6 3 0 7 AK 7 3

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♦ 1 ♠ Pass 2 NT.

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump, since your hand will almost surely produce seven tricks at no trump. The honors are sacrificed in the interest of seeking the shorter and probably the surer road to game.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

AK 10 6 4 K 6 0 7 4 3 A 10 6 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A jump rebid in the same suit by the opener is not forcing on the responder who may exercise the option to pass, an option which should be exercised in this case, since the response of one spade was shaded.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AK 2 ♥ Q 7 5 K Q 2 A J 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ 2 ♠ 4 ♥ Pass

Pass 2 ♠ ?

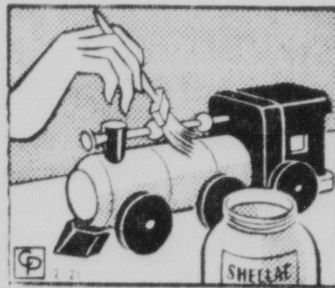

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. The jump raise to four hearts was a slight stretch of your values, though it was acceptable in order that your partner might not get the impression that you were making perhaps a mere competitive raise under pressure. But if you should pass at this point it might serve as an inducement to partner to go on to five hearts. Only if partner over-rides your decision should a five heart bid prove to be a good risk.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 5 2 K AK 10 7 6 4 A A 9 3

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

There's No Point In Frail Nails!

It's true — there ARE some nails and tacks, flipping up jar- women in this world who do nothing but sit around all day with their hands folded. They spend all their time in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, because they're bronze and marble statues.

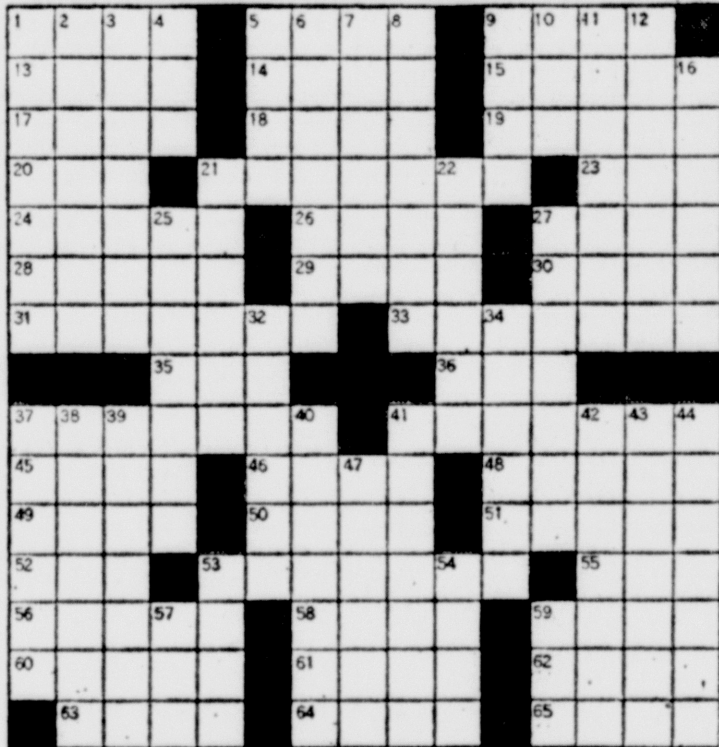

Then why, you may ask, do the fingernails of so many real women point to a look of folded-hands leisure? The reason is nailed fast to the WAY in which they use their hands, not to what they do. They don't let their hands become tools. Instead, they teach their hands — with their heads — to implement the proper tools for every job. Even when they are male-saving (taking over heavy chores for a husband or an employer) they are nail-saving, protected with cream and work-gloves.

If your nails are weak and brittle, your finger-ends sore and rough, check first your calcium intake. Add a glass or two of milk a day.

Then, don't ask your nails to undertake any jobs against their nature . . . prying up staples,

DEAR ANN: I'm having serious trouble with my 17-year-old son. He's been going with a lovely girl who is only 13. She's large for her age, and quite grown up in manner.

I have reason to believe they are more deeply involved than they should be. He's told me falsehoods about where they went for the evening and many incidents have occurred which have made me suspicious.

The girl's parents are separated and she lives with her grandparents. They can't do much about disciplining her. My son's father is dead and I've done my best to raise a large family. When I suggested he take out other girls he said I had no

Death Of Last Civil War Veteran Marks End Of Great, Tragic Era

Editors Note—The death of Walter Williams, last surviving Civil War veteran, marked the end of a great and tragic era. Robert D. Price, AP authority on Civil War history, has written a story which captures the flavor of that brave and hardy breed — the Civil War soldier.

By ROBERT D. PRICE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now the Civil War belongs to the ages; the last veteran is dead. Walter Williams, who died Saturday at Houston, Tex., was the last living man of four million who wore blue or gray in 1861-65. He gave his age as 117 and thus had lived some 94 years since he doffed the uniform that was his badge of honor in history.

Thus passes a brave and hardy breed. There have been, and are, in the United States millions of valiant veterans of bigger wars. Honored and privileged though they are, it is no slight to them to say they have not yet won the very special place that the Civil War vet held in America's heart.

Most of us remember him, North or South, as a cantankerous old codger, set in his ways and mighty proud.

He was part of a unique chapter in our history, part of a great war exclusively our own. The Confederates who went home from the battles gave us our only knowledge of how an American reacts to defeat. It was a war made more real for us because our grandmothers could tell tales to match those of our grandfathers—how Sherman's men raided the family henhouse, how Early's troops burned Chambersburg, how the barn down the lane was used as a hospital.

It was a war in which elements of chivalry still brightened the drab scenes of blood and death. Bugles and drums sounded the charge, and men went into battle with bright flags waving and band music throbbing. There were cavalry conflicts with flashing sabres. Generals led their men in person.

The Civil War soldier was an individualist, a quality particularly calculated to endear him in American tradition. He knew discipline, of course; he was well aware of the array of sins which carried penalties of death or dishonorable discharge, or lesser punishments like 30 days of hard labor with an 18 - pound ball chained to his leg, whipping, branding, sentry duty with a brick-loaded knapsack, or assignment to the detail of burying dead horses.

But all these penalties didn't deter him from flouting army rules if and when he felt like it. One typical story is told of a whole section of Confederate trenches found empty at an official inspection: the boys were across the way playing cards with their Northern foemen.

In substantial measure, the Civil War soldier—the Confederate especially—demonstrated how little a man needs to live. He thrived on such savories as "skillygallee"—hardtack soaked in water and fried in bacon or pork fat. The Southerner never saw coffee after 1862, and the Northerner found that weevils didn't spoil the taste: the heat of cooking drove them to the top of the brew where they easily were skimmed off.

The armies in blue and gray were young armies. The North enlisted more than 10,000 youngsters under 18, more than 1,200 under 15. The South had 13-year-old cadets as drillmasters.

Don't get the idea from any or all of this that the wearer of blue or gray lacked the primary requisite of a soldier. He was a fighting man, first and last. There were plenty of desertions—nearly 400,000 on both sides—but there also were casualty lists which compare in bloodiness with any produced by modern conflict.

Consider: The South lost 260,000 dead out of the 984,000 men between 18 and 45 who were counted in the 1860 census. There were battles in which one of every three men engaged was killed or wounded. Longstreet's corps lost 44 per cent of its strength in two hours fighting at Chickamauga, and one of the Union brigades opposing him saw 49 per cent of its men put out of action. More than 7,000 Northern men fell in 15 minutes at Cold Harbor. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia lost a third of all its general officers at Gettysburg.

And these men went through all the bloodiness and privation for a peak pay to privates of $18 per month! They were a brave and hardy breed, the fighting men of 1861-65; the world will not soon see their like again.

Christmas In Hawaii: Santa Comes By Tugboat

By FREDERICK V. SMITH
HONOLULU (UPI) — Santa Claus arrives by tugboat instead of in a sleigh, and the season never gets whiter than the sands of Pacific beaches.

This is Christmas in Hawaii, the newest state in the Union and one just as enthusiastic about Christmas as the other 49.

Island dwellers will soak evergreen trees in 14 different solutions to keep needles from drying out and falling off in the 80-degree Christmas weather. Artificial snow is heaped on the branches to help protect them.

The Christmas season comes earlier in Hawaii than in most of the rest of the United States. Packages to the mainland have to be on their way by the end of November. The shopping season spreads over a two-month period, much to the delight of Hawaiian merchants.

Gift packages are complicated by shipping problems. Items light enough for sending by airmail are popular. Larger gifts must be sturdily wrapped to bear the extra handling of shipping by sea.

Island homes are decorated for Christmas in the traditional green and red motif. Bright island berries are used in holiday arrangements, and poinsettias, which grow wild in Hawaii, take the place of holly and mistletoe.

When Santa Claus is called on to appear, he generally arrives by water. His "helpers" who throw candy to the kids are dressed in hula skirts.

Christmas church services are similar to those in Vermont or Wyoming. Bright-colored aloha shirts will appear in the congregation.

It is after Christmas that the holidays take on a distinctive island stamp. The oriental love of fireworks and the American tradition of wild celebration make New Year's the brightest occasion of the Hawaiian year.

On New Year's eve, Honolulu's hilltops light up as though each were a small volcano. The spectacle lasts for almost two hours before celebrants succeed in shooting off their collection of firecrackers and roman candles.

Liquor Now Legal

While the present land rush is primarily a result of a penchant for wide-open living among Oklahomans, it can at least be partly attributed to another kind of liquid. It's legal liquor.

There never was a shortage of alcoholic beverages in Oklahoma, but until the voters dumped 51 years of prohibition last April 7, liquor was a bane rather than a boon to forthright city officials.

"You might say we're growing up in that respect," said Mayor James H. Norick. He pointed out that the liquor revenue windfall, long the domain of bootleggers, now goes to the cities on the basis of their population. And Oklahoma City, with a population currently estimated at 316,000 is getting its share.

Spurs Construction

Legalizing liquor also spurred a construction boom in bright new retail stores as well as in private clubs, which are the only places Oklahomans may drink outside their own homes.

Norick also thinks repeal may be a factor in attracting new industry to the city. Industry is what city planners are most interested in now.

Norick believes Oklahoma City has an enviable opportunity to spread out systematically, provide plenty of living room for industry and homes and avoid the "fencing in" that hampers the growth of other cities.

Despite the emphasis on outward growth, local officials are not neglecting the city's downtown section. A cross-town expressway is in the planning stages and when it is finished, Norick envisages a plush new section of apartment hotels near the center of town.

This is needed. Visitors entering Oklahoma City from the south find the city's worst eyesore in the shadow of the main business district.

An urban renewal bill passed by the last state legislature will make possible the removal of this slum. The law allows local officials to use federal aid in arresting urban deterioration.

Bahamas Seek Share Of U.S. Tourist Dollar

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — These "Islands in the Sun" are flexing their muscles and preparing to battle the more established tourist resorts of North America's sub-tropical area for the winter visitor's dollar.

This land of fishing and other forms of fun, with its miles of powder sand white beaches and waving palm trees, also is casting an avareicious eye at the industrial dollar.

The Bahamas always have been a tourist mecca, but the islands, which dot the Atlantic Ocean for 750 miles off Florida's east coast, are now going all-out to entice fun-loving winter vacationists from their American neighbor.

Plush Development

For example — about 100 miles to the north of the capital of this British Crown Colony, a plush $2,500,000 development is getting off the ground on Treasure Cay on the northern tip of Great Abaco Island. Backers of the project are Capt. Leonard Thompson, Abaco representative in the Bahamas House of Assembly; American financier Dumas Milner of Jackson, Miss., and Thomas E. Stanley of Dallas, Tex.

The project, nestling against an arc of beach cushioned with powder puff sand, will include a hotel, marina, golf course, shopping center, homes and executive apartments.

Party Ousts 30

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese Communist Party has ousted 30 of its alleged "Trotskyite" student members and put 39 others on "restricted" status, it was learned Sunday. The action against the students, considered much more strongly leftist than other members of the party itself, was announced in the latest issue of the Akahata (Red Flag), the official organ of the Communist Party here.

The first submarine that actually sank another vessel was the Confederate Hunley, built during the Civil war. It sank the Union frigate Housatonic in Charleston harbor.

Brazil Finds Building New Capital City Expensive

By LOUIS STEIN
RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — President Juscelino Kubitschek has vowed that come what may he will move the capital of Brazil to its new inland location by next spring.

The government is pushing construction of the new city of Brasilia on a crash schedule. More than 20,000 men are working day and night to get the capital ready for occupancy by the target date of April 21, 1960.

Here in the present capital, the House of Deputies has voted to create a commission to investigate the project which has been called a nest of waste, corruption, nepotism and plain stupidity.

Deputy Elias Adame charged that friends of the administration are being let in on lucrative land deals which if not crooked are morally dishonest. Land values at Brasilia have skyrocketed in the past two and a half years. Speculators are making as much as 400 per cent profit on quick real estate turnovers.

Kubitschek denies that Brasilia is a bottomless pit into which he is pouring public funds. He says he regards the foundation of the new capital as the major accomplishment of his administration.

Even opponents of the project admit it is too late to turn back. About $45 million already has been spent on construction that was originally estimated to run $100,000,000. Critics claim the final cost will be three times that figure.

Brasilia is rising out of the Goias highland about 700 miles from the Atlantic Ocean. Shifting the capital inland has been discussed in Brazil since colonial days when Rio De Janeiro was regarded as too vulnerable to raids by pirates and foreign forces. The move is being carried out today to speed settlement and development of Brazil's vast hinterland.

When Kubitschek signed the project he noted that 85 per cent of Brazil's 62 million population still lives along the coast. He said there are nearly four million square miles of undeveloped territory in the interior.

Since ground was broken for the new capital in 1956, Brasilia has grown to a population of 71,500. Buildings completed include the presidential residence, the big Palace Hotel and 500 low-cost homes. New roads link the city with Belo Horizonte, Anapolis, Sao Paulo, Corumba, Barreiros and Belem. Planes use a 10,725-foot airport which is the only one in Brazil equipped to accommodate international jet airliners.

Bahamas Seek Share Of U.S. Tourist Dollar

It is but one of many projects erupting from this string of islands alongside the Gulf Stream which Christopher Columbus saw first when he sailed into the New World.

Not every Yankee dollar that finds its way into this land of the pound, the shilling and driving - on - the - wrong - side - of - the - street is targeted for pleasure. A lot is directed to Free Port, a Grand Bahama Island where, aside from the year-round summer temperatures, the climate is economically beneficial.

There, the Grand Bahama Port Authority, Ltd., has acquired 50,000 acres of land from the Crown for commercial development. Business firms there are exempt from any income, capital gains and real estate taxes for the next 25 years. They will pay no customs levies on goods used in manufacturing until the year 2054.

The area has just completed work on a harbor with a turning basin 1,000 feet square. It offers international shipping lower costs, speed and loading efficiency. Shipping is not bothered with import and export duties on ships' stores, bunkering supplies or servicing facilities.

Government tourist officials estimate that 250,000 visitors spent about $50,000,000 in the islands this year. They hope to up both figures by 50 per cent in 1960.

Enter Hospital

LONDON (UPI) — The Sunday Express has called on the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Windsor and British Ambassador to Paris, Sir Gladwyn Jebb to resign from the jockey club. The newspaper said in an editorial that resignation is the only course open to them since it has been revealed that the club bars Jews.

Tribal Chief Weds

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, (AP) — Four thousand persons turned out Saturday for the Maori wedding of tribal chief Nikita Tare Anihana, 90, to Nahurehura Kaihe, 68. The bride arrived in a about 50,000 white horses driven by a granddaughter of the bridegroom.

Bahamas Seek Share Of U.S. Tourist Dollar

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — These "Islands in the Sun" are flexing their muscles and preparing to battle the more established tourist resorts of North America's sub-tropical area for the winter visitor's dollar.

This land of fishing and other forms of fun, with its miles of powder sand white beaches and waving palm trees, also is casting an avareicious eye at the industrial dollar.

The Bahamas always have been a tourist mecca, but the islands, which dot the Atlantic Ocean for 750 miles off Florida's east coast, are now going all-out to entice fun-loving winter vacationists from their American neighbor.

Robert Winner Barton and Mary Arlene Duncan, both of Everett, Pa.

Marriage Licenses

Marlin Fay Green, 913 Frederick Street, and Janet Kay Jenkins, Mt. Savage.

George Albert Hartman, Ridgeley, and Barbara Lea Johnson, Wiley Ford.

Kenneth George Lease, 1509 Virginia Avenue, and Margaret Helen Sacks, 306 Piedmont Avenue.

Plush Development

For example — about 100 miles to the north of the capital of this British Crown Colony, a plush $2,500,000 development is getting off the ground on Treasure Cay on the northern tip of Great Abaco Island. Backers of the project are Capt. Leonard Thompson, Abaco representative in the Bahamas House of Assembly; American financier Dumas Milner of Jackson, Miss., and Thomas E. Stanley of Dallas, Tex.

The project, nestling against an arc of beach cushioned with powder puff sand, will include a hotel, marina, golf course, shopping center, homes and executive apartments.

Party Ousts 30

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese Communist Party has ousted 30 of its alleged "Trotskyite" student members and put 39 others on "restricted" status, it was learned Sunday. The action against the students, considered much more strongly leftist than other members of the party itself, was announced in the latest issue of the Akahata (Red Flag), the official organ of the Communist Party here.

The first submarine that actually sank another vessel was the Confederate Hunley, built during the Civil war. It sank the Union frigate Housatonic in Charleston harbor.

Death Of Last Civil War Veteran Marks End Of Great, Tragic Era

Editors Note—The death of Walter Williams, last surviving Civil War veteran, marked the end of a great and tragic era. Robert D. Price, AP authority on Civil War history, has written a story which captures the flavor of that brave and hardy breed — the Civil War soldier.

By ROBERT D. PRICE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now the Civil War belongs to the ages, the last veteran is dead. Walter Williams, who died Saturday at Houston, Tex., was the last living man of four million who wore blue or gray in 1861-65. He gave his age as 117 and thus had lived some 94 years since he doffed the uniform that was his badge of honor in history.

Thus passes a brave and hardy breed. There have been, and are, in the United States millions of valiant veterans of bigger wars. Honored and privileged though they are, it is no slight to them to say they have not yet won the very special place that the Civil War vet held in America's heart.

Most of us remember him, North or South, as a cantankerous old codger, set in his ways and mighty proud.

He was part of a unique chapter in our history, part of a great war exclusively our own. The Confederates who went home from the battles gave us our only knowledge of how an American reacts to defeat. It was a war made more real for us because our grandmothers could tell tales to match those of our grandfathers—how Sherman's men raided the family henhouse, how Early's troops burned Chambersburg, how the barn down the lane was used as a hospital.

It was a war in which elements of chivalry still brightened the drab scenes of blood and death. Bugles and drums sounded the charge, and men went into battle with bright flags waving and band music throbbing. There were cavalry conflicts with flashing sabres. Generals led their men in person.

The Civil War soldier was an individualist, a quality particularly calculated to endure him in American tradition. He knew discipline, of course; he was well aware of the array of sins which carried penalties of death or dishonorable discharge, or lesser punishments like 30 days of hard labor with an 18-pound chain to his leg, whipping, branding, sentry duty with a brick-loaded knapsack, or assignment to the detail of burying dead horses.

But all these penalties didn't deter him from flouting army rules if and when he felt like it. One typical story is told of a whole section of Confederate trenches found empty at an official inspection: the boys were across the way playing cards with their Northern foemen.

In substantial measure, the Civil War soldier—the Confederate especially—demonstrated how little a man needs to live. He thrived on such savories as "skillygalie"—hardtack soaked in water and fried in bacon or pork fat. The Southerner never saw coffee after 1862, and the Northerner found that weevils didn't spoil the taste: the heat of cooking drove them to the top of the brew where they easily were skimmed off.

The armies in blue and gray were young armies. The North enlisted more than 10,000 youngsters under 18, more than 1,200 under 15. The South had 13-year-old cadets as drillmasters.

Don't get the idea from any or all of this that the wearer of blue or gray lacked the primary requisite of a soldier. He was a fighting man, first and last. There were plenty of desertions—nearly 400,000 on both sides—but there also were casualty lists which compare in bloodiness with any produced by modern conflict.

Consider: The South lost 260,000 dead out of the 964,000 men between 18 and 45 who were counted in the 1860 census. There were battles in which one of every three men engaged was killed or wounded. Longstreet's corps lost 44 per cent of its strength in two hours fighting at Chickamauga, and one of the Union brigades opposing him saw 49 per cent of its men put out of action. More than 7,000 Northern men fell in 15 minutes at Cold Harbor. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia lost a third of all its general officers at Gettysburg.

And these men went through all the bloodiness and privation for a peak pay to privates of $18 per month! They were a brave and hardy breed, the fighting men of 1861-65; the world will not soon see their like again.

By FREDERICK Y. SMITH
HONOLULU (UPI) — Santa Claus arrives by tugboat instead of in a sleigh, and the season never gets whiter than the sands of Pacific beaches.

This is Christmas in Hawaii, the newest state in the Union and one just as enthusiastic about Christmas as the other 49.

Island dwellers will soak evergreen trees in 14 different solutions to keep needles from drying out and falling off in the 80-degree Christmas weather. Artificial snow is heaped on the branches to help protect them.

The Christmas season comes earlier in Hawaii than in most of the rest of the United States. Packages to the mainland have to be on their way by the end of November. The shopping season spreads over a two-month period, much to the delight of Hawaiian merchants.

Gift packages are complicated by shipping problems. Items light enough for sending by airmail are popular. Larger gifts must be sturdily wrapped to bear the extra handling of shipping by sea.

Island homes are decorated for Christmas in the traditional green and red motif. Bright island berries are used in holiday arrangements, and poinsettias, which grow wild in Hawaii, take the place of holly and mistletoe.

When Santa Claus is called on to appear, he generally arrives by water. His "helpers" who throw candy to the kids are dressed in hula skirts.

Christmas church services are similar to those in Vermont or Wyoming. Bright-colored aloha shirts will appear in the congregation.

It is after Christmas that the holidays take on a distinctive island stamp. The oriental love of fireworks and the American tradition of wild celebration make New Year's the brightest occasion of the Hawaiian year.

On New Year's eve, Honolulu's hilltops light up as though each were a small volcano. The spectacle lasts for almost two hours before celebrants succeed in shooting off their collection of firecrackers and roman candles.

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — President Juscelino Kubitschek has vowed that come what may he will move the capital of Brazil to its new inland location by next spring.

The government is pushing construction of the new city of Brasilia on a crash schedule. More than 20,000 men are working day and night to get the capital ready for occupancy by the target date of April 21, 1960.

Here in the present capital, the House of Deputies has voted to create a commission to investigate the project which has been called a nest of waste, corruption, nepotism and plain stupidity.

Deputy Elias Adame charged that friends of the administration are being let in on lucrative land deals which if not crooked are morally dishonest. Land values at Brasilia have skyrocketed in the past two and a half years. Speculators are making as much as 400 per cent profit on quick real estate turnovers.

Kubitschek denies that Brasilia is a bottomless pit into which he is pouring public funds. He says Sao Paulo, Corumbia, Barreiros and Belem. Planes use a 10

City Lights Community Yule Tree

Hundreds Attend Christmas Ceremony

The Christmas season began last night for hundreds of citizens who gathered near the site of old Fort Cumberland to help the Queen City light its Community Christmas Tree.

All joined in the singing of familiar Christmas carols led by the Cumberland Choral Society to music furnished by the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band.

"Give us an appreciation," prayed Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, "of what Thou hast accomplished in the birth of Jesus Christ."

"Lead us in all ways," he continued, "to cast aside the works of darkness and to put on the armor of light . . . through Jesus Christ, who was not ashamed to come to us through the scene in the Manger."

The tree, placed on the hillside below Emmanuel Episcopal Church, was lighted by Mayor J. Edwin Keech, who extended the Christmas greetings of the City of Cumberland.

Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, invoked blessings to all mankind and nations, especially "those who do not acknowledge Thy existence," and said that only when all men acknowledge Christ will peace reign supreme on the earth.

Street Commissioner John J. Long, master of ceremonies, thanked Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, Park Board member, who directed the Street Department decorating teams, and Eugene Mason and Mrs. Eva Hogan, Recreation Department officials who planned the program.

The weather was a cool 32 and still during the ceremony.

Virtually all of those who attended stopped to see the lighted Creche, located in the Greene Street entrance to the church grounds, and similar Christmas scenes placed nearby.

Allegany Boys Score High On NMSQ Tests

Two seniors at Allegany High School, Frank Cavood and Robert Weisman, have been cited for outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which was given last spring.

Both have received letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Such letters of commendation are being awarded to some 27,000 students all over the United States in recognition of high performance on the test.

Cavood is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. F. L. Cavood, 904 Piedmont Avenue, and is on the varsity football squad at Allegany.

Weisman is the son of Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Weisman, 516 Washington Street, and is an active member of the National Honor Society and the Hi-Y at Allegany. He also is president of the newly organized Student Council at this school.

Both boys were among 550,000 juniors in 14,500 high schools who took the test last spring. The three-hour examination, covering five areas of educational development, is a part of the annual Merit Scholarship competition, which offers the largest system of privately financed scholarships in the United States.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation recognizes two groups of students who achieve high scores on the test. The top scorers in each state, rated according to the number of graduating high school seniors in that state, are named semi-finalists and take a second test to establish their eligibility for consideration for scholarships.

Students in the "commended" group are selected on a national basis without regard to the high school enrollment in their states. While the semi-finalists and commended students will not receive Merit scholarships, they are eligible for many scholarships apart from that program.

Three thousand students are now attending 400 colleges on Merit scholarships.

Christmas Party

About 100 boys and girls will be the guests of the Cumberland Lions Club at the organization's Christmas party which will be held in the Fiesta Room of the YMCA on Wednesday at 1 p.m. following the 12:15 p.m. luncheon of the club.

'Hark, The Herald Angels Sing'

Members of the Cumberland Choral Society sing familiar Christmas carols, including "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," as hundreds of residents of the area gathered last night to help the City of Cumberland light its community Christmas tree. The Cumberland Municipal Concert Band, at right, played a Christmas overture and the carols.

Lions Leading In Collections At SA Kettles

The Cumberland Lions Club is leading the race for a prize lecture to be given the service club which raises most money for the Salvation Army at the Christmas kettles, Captain Fred Overton, Salvation Army commander, reported last night.

The Lions, who manned the kettle on Baltimore Street Saturday raised $517.19, more money than was brought in by any of the five other groups who have operated the kettle so far.

As of yesterday, the six organizations had raised a total of $1,443.26.

Captain Overton said he has deposited $1,600 in proceeds from the kettle drive so far. The Army hopes to raise $4,500 in this year's campaign.

To spur the clubmen to greater efforts, the Army will give the leading organization a lecture, which will be refinished each year by the Red Shield Boys Club for presentation to the next year's winner.

Of the clubs that have manned the kettle so far, the Kiwanis Club is running second with $299.07 raised, Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, has collected $183.49, the Cumberland Rotary Club $178.50, the Optimist Club, $150.92, and the Salvation Army Men's Club $124.09.

Today from 4 to 9 p. m. the Bedford Road Optimist Club will run the Baltimore Street kettle, and the South Cumberland Civic and Business Men's Association will operate the Virginia Avenue kettle.

On Tuesday, the Civitans will be collecting for the kettle fund, and the Junior Association of Commerce will take over on Wednesday.

The drive will wind up Thursday, Christmas Eve, with Lewis J. Ort and Woodward D. Pealer, co-chairmen of the Salvation Army Christmas cheer program, and Capt. Overton at the kettle.

Winter Losing Its Punch? Look At The Snow Record

By P. TERRENCE BURKE
News Staff Writer

Are you one of those "oldtimers" who contend that winters of years ago were more severe than those of modern times?

With winter due to arrive officially tomorrow at 9:35 a. m., here are some interesting figures on snowfall in Cumberland from the records of Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, that may affirm or dispel your ideas on the subject.

A review of the records shows that a 10-year period 30 years ago had just 19.7 inches of snow more than for the period from 1949 to 1959.

A total of 270.5 inches was recorded here during the period of 1919 to 1929 as compared with a total of 250.8 inches for the last 10 years. This is just an average of two inches a year more than the modern measurements.

Most In 1921-22

The heaviest accumulation of snowfall for any one year occurred in the winter of 1921-22 when 58.6 inches was recorded. The year with the next greatest measurement was 1923-24, when 50 inches of snow fell.

During the last 10 years the most snowfall for any one winter was from November 1955 to April 1956 when 47.6 inches dropped on the city.

The only other time in either the 10-year spans that snow fell in each month from November to April was in the winter of 1952-53. The least snow recorded here during the two comparison periods was in the winter of 1919-20, when only 1.3 inches fell, according to the records compiled by Mr. Golden.

Here are the yearly records for comparison:

1919-20—1.3 inches	1949-50—11.3 inches
1920-21—19.4 inches	1950-51—26.1 inches
1921-22—58.6 inches	1951-52—28.9 inches
1922-23—28.9 inches	1952-53—27.8 inches
1923-24—50.0 inches	1953-54—17.4 inches
1924-25—26.2 inches	1954-55—12.0 inches
1925-26—29.0 inches	1955-56—47.6 inches
1926-27—23.1 inches	1956-57—19.7 inches
1927-28—16.6 inches	1957-58—40.2 inches
1928-29—17.5 inches	1958-59—19.8 inches

Since there is such a varied amount of snowfall in this area from year to year, the Weather Bureau does not put out an estimated yearly average for this section.

Winter Arrives Tomorrow

However, the records do reveal that most of the snow which does fall here occurs in the months of February and January.

A look back further into the records kept by Mr. Golden reveals that 50 years ago, in the winter of 1899-99, 55 inches was measured in the city, and 40 years ago, in 1908-09, there was 22 inches.

The winter solstice arrives tomorrow morning, but only 2 of an inch of snow was measured here in November, with just a trace noticed thus far this month.

Salem Chapter Will Install

Salem Chapter No. 18, Royal Arch Masons, will install officers at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Masonic Temple.

The meeting will be called to order by Fred A. Gates Jr., retiring high priest.

The new officers will be Carlton H. Lapp, excellent high priest; Arnold W. Ballard, excellent king; Robert J. Martin, excellent scribe; James Orr, treasurer, and John E. Tritt, secretary.

Alvin O. Cook, Frostburg, grand inspector, will be the installing officer and Frank Hines, high priest of Ohr Chapter No. 26 and grand senior steward, will act as marshal.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Airliner, 34 Aboard, Forced To Land Here

TWA Plane Crippled By Engine Trouble

Screaming tires brought a crippled Trans World Airlines passenger plane to a skidding halt just 15 feet short of the cliff at Cumberland's Municipal Airport Saturday night when the huge airliner was forced to make an emergency landing here.

With one of its two motors silent, its prop feathered because of engine failure, the sleek Martin 404 was forced to land in a 40-mile crosswind as its pilot received landing instructions relayed by telephone to Washington, D. C.'s International Airport and thence via radio to the plane.

The craft, flight 420 out of Washington, carried 31 passengers and a crew of three on their way to Columbus, Ohio. The No. 2, or starboard engine, suddenly quit as it flew over the Cumberland Valley about 8 p. m.

Messages Relayed

The pilot, Capt. W. E. Carneal, attempted to make radio contact with the Cumberland airport but failed and instead sent his message to FAA headquarters in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Martinsburg telephoned the Cumberland port to alert William Leyh Jr., the attendant on duty Saturday night. Leyh and a friend who was visiting the airport at the time, James Abe, quickly turned the airport's lights on and made preparations for the emergency landing.

Meanwhile, representatives of TWA phoned the airport for data on emergency equipment available, runway sizes, lights and landing instructions. Leyh reported the longest runway, No. 24 at 5,800 feet, and the 40-miles-per-hour crosswind. This data was relayed to Capt. Carneal at the controls of the ship.

Passengers Unruffled

Bringing his limping plane in a little high, the pilot set down smoothly about midway along the runway, then was forced to apply his brakes to halt the swiftly moving plane as it neared the 60-foot embankment at the southwest end of the runway. It tumbled to a stop just short of the cliff. The time was 8:11 p. m.

After it taxied to the administration building, the passengers and crew, apparently calm and unruffled from their close brush with death, debarked to await the arrival of another plane to continue to their destinations.

TWA sent a second Martin twin-engine craft to Cumberland. The passengers and crew of the crippled plane took off on the next leg of their journey shortly before midnight, wishing their Cumberland hosts a "Merry Christmas" after nearly a four-hour layover on an unscheduled stop.

Mechanics at the local airport worked most of the day yesterday to get the balky motor of the Martin working again. They said it may be another day or two before the plane will be ready to fly.

A close-fitting enclosure of postal card thickness should be placed in each envelope and the flap should be either turned in or sealed. Envelopes submitted should be of ordinary letter size and each must be properly addressed.

An envelope must not be sent for the return of a first-day cover. The outside envelope to the postmaster at Washington should be clearly endorsed "First Day Covers 4-cent Boy Scout Commemorative Stamp." Orders for covers must not include requests for uncanceled stamps.

Requests for first-day covers should be mailed in time to reach the Postmaster in advance of February 8, the day of issue.

A special Christmas party will be on the agenda for the Cumberland Rotary Club at its Tuesday luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Clinic Scheduled

A pre-school and well baby clinic will be held at the health center in Cresaptown School tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Church Notices For Christmas Due Tonight

Notices of special Christmas services intended for publication in the Times-News Christmas church page must be delivered to the newspaper office by 11 p.m. today.

The deadline for notices of services of Sunday, December 27, also will be 11 p.m. today.

To avoid confusion, Christmas notices should be clearly marked.

Foley Visits Post Offices In Two Counties

Makes 34 Calls In Three-Day Trek

Rep. John R. Foley has completed a tour of Post Offices in the Sixth Congressional District, visiting a total of 70 last week, 34 of them in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Accompanied on his tour of this county by his local office secretary, Mrs. Anne B. Everline, the Congressman visited Rawlings, the smallest Post Office in the United States, as well as the oldest in this area at Cumberland and Oldtown.

In this county he visited all the Post Offices except Little Orleans. The Allegany County list includes 19 offices as follows: Rawlings, Flintstone, Oldtown, Spring Gap, South Cumberland Station A, Cumberland, LaVale, Corriganville, Ellerslie, Mt. Savage, Eckhart, Frostburg, Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport, Luke, Pinto and Cresaptown.

In Garrett County, Lewis C. Hutson of Kitzmiller, chairman of the Garrett County State Central Committee, met Rep. Foley and Mrs. Everline in Grantsville and escorted them on the tour of 15 Post Offices in that county. Rep. Foley said, "We missed only one in this biggest county. That was Sang Run and the weather got so bad we just didn't make it."

Visited in Garrett County were Grantsville, Bittering, McHenry, Accident, Friendsville, Deer Park, Crellin, Hutton, Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, Vindex, Kitzmiller, Shalimar, Swanton and Bloomington.

In Mt. Lake Park, Rep. Foley visited the old Post Office and the site of the new one now under construction. He observed that this is the only new Post Office now under construction in his district.

During his tour, he visited every classroom in Grantsville Elementary School, visited a number of classes at Northern High School and had lunch and addressed students at Southern High School. The following day he had lunch at Kitzmiller School and visited every class there.

He said he was surprised to learn that about three-fourths of these offices have never been visited by their Congressman.

Mr. Foley is personally interested in the success and service of the Post Offices in his district because he represents them not only as their Congressman but as a member of the important House Committee on Civil Service and United States Post Offices.

He expressed the opinion that better facilities are needed in many communities.

One Man Killed, Five Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Richard Catlett Fatally Injured

A 25-year-old Virginia man was killed and five other persons were injured when two cars collided headon on U. S. Route 50 east of Romney, W. Va., near the Virginia-West Virginia state line Saturday night.

Richard Eugene Catlett, Gore, Va., driver of one of the cars, was dead on arrival at Winchester, Va., Memorial Hospital, West Virginia State Police said.

Injured and admitted to the same hospital were Mrs. Mary Catlett, pregnant wife of the dead man, who had lacerations of the right leg and was badly shaken up; Wilbur Dunlap, also of Gore, who was reported in serious condition with a fractured Adam's apple and lacerations; Roy Oates of Gore, fracture of the jaw and a puncture wound above the eye; George Ours of Moorefield, W. Va., driver of the second car, broken kneecap, fractured ribs and a deep laceration of the leg; and Harold Wimer, Somerset, Pa., a serviceman who sustained minor injuries but was admitted for X-rays and observation.

Ours, identified as the cashier of the Moorefield National Bank, is the most seriously injured and was placed in an oxygen tent last night.

Trooper James Dorsey of the Romney detachment of the West Virginia State Police said last night he had been unable to question the victims to determine the cause of the accident, because of their injuries.

The cars crashed headon near the state line about 9:45 p.m. Saturday and the victims were taken to the Winchester hospital by ambulance.

In another West Virginia accident, Virgil Hall, 23, of Route 2, Keyser, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital here Saturday night with lacerations of the face and forehead, sustained when a car in which he was riding smashed into a utility pole.

West Virginia authorities said the accident occurred about 10 o'clock on a privately owned road which runs between Route 28 and Wiley Ford. The car, operated by Robert William Harris of Martin, W. Va., struck a tree and then sheared off the utility pole. Harris was not hurt.

City Bridge Playing Club To Be Formed

The City Recreation Bridge Club will be formally organized at a meeting January 6 at 8 p. m. in the Girl Scout House.

"Plans call for the club, formed by those who have taken bridge lessons sponsored by the Recreation Department, to meet for weekly Wednesday night playing sessions."

For some time, the bridge enthusiasts have been meeting for informal sessions with an average attendance of 20.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director and club advisor, said to 40 persons can be enrolled in the bridge playing club.

It will continue to operate under the supervision of the Recreation Department.

Members of the informal group recently held a Christmas party at the Girl Scout House.

Gifts were presented to C. C. DeHaven, who has been instructor for all 10 bridge lesson classes, and to Mrs. Hogan.

Youth And Man, 59, Reported Missing

City police received two missing persons reports over the weekend.

Clifford Van Rank, 59, of 11 Browning Street, was reported missing after he left home to report for work Friday. He is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighs 185 pounds, wears glasses and has sandy grey hair.

Benjamin Broome, 18, of 306 Maryland Avenue, colored, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, 180 pounds, was wearing a black leather jacket, dark green corduroy trousers and white shoes when he left home last Friday.

Deaths

Boor, Mrs. Andrew, 86, Keyser, W. Va.

With one of its two motors silent, its prop feathered because of engine failure, the sleek Martin 404 was forced to land in a 40-mile crosswind as its pilot received landing instructions relayed by telephone to Washington, D. C.'s International Airport and thence via radio to the plane.

The craft, flight 420 out of Washington, carried 31 passengers and a crew of three on their way to Columbus, Ohio. The No. 2, or starboard engine, suddenly quit as it flew over the Cumberland Valley about 8 p. m.

Messages Relayed

The pilot, Capt. W. E. Carneal, attempted to make radio contact with the Cumberland airport but failed and instead sent his message to FAA headquarters in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Martinsburg telephoned the Cumberland port to alert William Leyh Jr., the attendant on duty Saturday night. Leyh and a friend who was visiting the airport at the time, James Abe, quickly turned the airport's lights on and made preparations for the emergency landing.

Meanwhile, representatives of TWA phoned the airport for data on emergency equipment available, runway sizes, lights and landing instructions. Leyh reported the longest runway, No. 24 at 5,800 feet, and the 40-miles-per-hour crosswind. This data was relayed to Capt. Carneal at the controls of the ship.

Passengers Unruffled

Bringing his limping plane in a little high, the pilot set down smoothly about midway along the runway, then was forced to apply his brakes to halt the swiftly moving plane as it neared the 60-foot embankment at the southwest end of the runway. It tumbled to a stop just short of the cliff. The time was 8:11 p. m.

After it taxied to the administration building, the passengers and crew, apparently calm and unruffled from their close brush with death, debarked to await the arrival of another plane to continue to their destinations.

TWA sent a second Martin twin-engine craft to Cumberland. The passengers and crew of the crippled plane took off on the next leg of their journey shortly before midnight, wishing their Cumberland hosts a "Merry Christmas" after nearly a four-hour layover on an unscheduled stop.

Mechanics at the local airport worked most of the day yesterday to get the balky motor of the Martin working again. They said it may be another day or two before the plane will be ready to fly.

Rotary Club To Meet

A special Christmas party will be on the agenda for the Cumberland Rotary Club at its Tuesday luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Clinic Scheduled

A pre-school and well baby clinic will be held at the health center in Cresaptown School tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Church Notices For Christmas Due Tonight

Notices of special Christmas services intended for publication in the Times-News Christmas church page must be delivered to the newspaper office by 11 p.m. today.

The deadline for notices of services of Sunday, December 27, also will be 11 p.m. today.

To avoid confusion, Christmas notices should be clearly marked.

Foley Visits Post Offices In Two Counties

Makes 34 Calls In Three-Day Trek

Rep. John R. Foley has completed a tour of Post Offices in the Sixth Congressional District, visiting a total of 70 last week, 34 of them in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Accompanied on his tour of this county by his local office secretary, Mrs. Anne B. Everline, the Congressman visited Rawlings, the smallest Post Office in the United States, as well as the oldest in this area at Cumberland and Oldtown.

In this county he visited all the Post Offices except Little Orleans. The Allegany County list includes 19 offices as follows: Rawlings, Flintstone, Oldtown, Spring Gap, South Cumberland Station A, Cumberland, LaVale, Corriganville, Ellerslie, Mt. Savage, Eckhart, Frostburg, Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport, Luke, Pinto and Cresaptown.

In Garrett County, Lewis C. Hutson of Kitzmiller, chairman of the Garrett County State Central Committee, met Rep. Foley and Mrs. Everline in Grantsville and escorted them on the tour of 15 Post Offices in that county. Rep. Foley said, "We missed only one in this biggest county. That was Sang Run and the weather got so bad we just didn't make it."

Visited in Garrett County were Grantsville, Bittling, McHenry, Accident, Friendsville, Deer Park, Crellin, Hutton, Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, Vindex, Kitzmiller, Shallmar, Swanton and Bloomington.

In Mt. Lake Park, Rep. Foley visited the old Post Office and the site of the new one now under construction. He observed that this is the only new Post Office now under construction in his district.

During his tour, he visited every classroom in Grantsville Elementary School, visited a number of classes at Northern High School and had lunch and addressed students at Southern High School. The following day he had lunch at Kitzmiller School and visited every class there.

He said he was surprised to learn that about three-fourths of these offices have never been visited by their Congressman.

Mr. Foley is personally interested in the success and service of the Post Offices in his district because he represents them not only as their Congressman but as a member of the important House Committee on Civil Service and United States Post Offices.

He expressed the opinion that better facilities are needed in many communities.

One Man Killed, Five Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Richard Catlett Fatally Injured

A 25-year-old Virginia man was killed and five other persons were injured when two cars collided headon on U.S. Route 50 east of Romney, W. Va., near the Virginia-West Virginia state line Saturday night.

Richard Eugene Catlett, Gore, Va., driver of one of the cars, was dead on arrival at Winchester, Va., Memorial Hospital, West Virginia State Police said.

Injured and admitted to the same hospital were Mrs. Mary Catlett, pregnant wife of the dead man, who had lacerations of the right leg and was badly shaken up; Wilbur Dunlap, also of Gore, who was reported in serious condition with a fractured Adam's apple and lacerations; Roy Oates of Gore, fracture of the jaw and a puncture wound above the eye; George Ours of Moorefield, W. Va., driver of the second car, broken kneecap, fractured ribs and a deep laceration of the leg; and Harold Wimer, Somerset, Pa., a serviceman who sustained minor injuries but was admitted for X-rays and observation.

Ours, identified as the cashier of the Moorefield National Bank, is the most seriously injured and was placed in an oxygen tent last night.

Trooper James Dorsey of the West Virginia State Police said last night he had been unable to question the victims to determine the cause of the accident, because of their injuries.

The cars crashed headon near the state line about 9:45 p.m. Saturday and the victims were taken to the Winchester hospital by ambulance.

In another West Virginia accident, Virgil Hall, 23, of Route 2, Keyser, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital here Saturday night with lacerations of the face and forehead, sustained when a car in which he was riding smashed into a utility pole.

West Virginia authorities said the accident occurred about 10 o'clock on a privately owned road which runs between Route 28 and Wiley Ford. The car, operated by Robert William Harris of Martin, W. Va., struck a tree and then sheared off the utility pole. Harris was not hurt.

City Bridge Playing Club To Be Formed

The City Recreation Bridge Club will be formally organized at a meeting January 6 at 8 p. m. in the Girl Scout House.

Plans call for the club, formed by those who have taken bridge lessons sponsored by the Recreation Department, to meet for weekly Wednesday night playing sessions.

For some time, the bridge enthusiasts have been meeting for informal sessions with an average attendance of 20.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director and club advisor, said to 40 persons can be enrolled in the bridge playing club.

It will continue to operate under the supervision of the Recreation Department.

Members of the informal group recently held a Christmas party at the Girl Scout House.

Gifts were presented to C. C. DeHaven, who has been instructor for all 10 bridge lesson classes, and to Mrs. Hogan.
